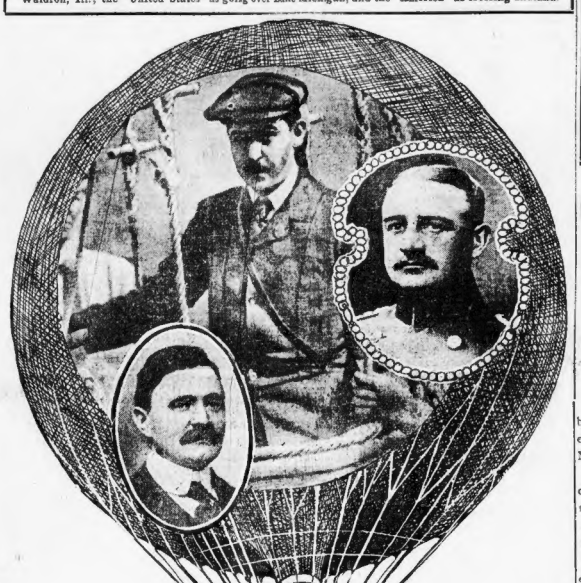
RIVALS IN GREAT RACE IN SKY

In the centre and photographed in the balloon basket is Oscar Erbsloeh of the German entry "Pommern." In the left corner is Captain H. B. Hersey of the American balloon "United States," and at the right is J. C. McCoy of the American balloon "America." The "Pommern" was reported this morning near Waldron, Ill.; the "United States" as going over Lake Michigan, and the "America" as crossing Indiana.



BALLOONS RACING OVER GREAT LAKES; AMERICAN CONTESTANT IN THE LEAD

Major Hersey in "United States" Reported to Have Safely Crossed Lake Michigan—One or More Contestants Still Over the Water, Driving With Gale.

BULL ETIN.

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich., Oct. 22.—The first balloon to cross Lake Michigan reached South Haven after an exciting trip. It bore two large American flags, and it is thought to be the United States, No. 3 in the race.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 22.—The three balloons seen at Linden, Ind., at 7:30 to-day, passed over Lebanon, Ind., at 8:15 o'clock. One was headed due east. This balloon dropped a letter, which has not been found. It was 150 feet from the ground. The other two were making good progress southeastward toward Indianapolis, and were flying high.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Balloon No. 3, the United States, piloted by Major Hershey, and at least one other, and possibly two, of the entries in the international race in the air, are now out over Lake Michigan—the one great peril the aeronauts dreaded.

The cause for the confusion on whether there are two or three over the lake is the fact that two were seen at Gray's Lake, fifteen miles from Waukegan, at 6:05 this morning, and Major Hershey's craft at Zion City at 6:30. But when the United States was seen it had no companion. This would indicate three balloons.

HERSHEY MEGAPHONES.

The balloons were traveling in a northeasterly direction, with a rather stiff southwest wind at their backs, and were about 150 feet from the ground. Neither of the balloons seen at Gray's Lake from the Rine Hill observatory, Hyde Park, a mile and a half distant could be discerned in the early morning, but the men in the basket called to the crowd assembled in the street to find out where they were. Major Hershey used a megaphone to communicate with Chief of Police Walker at Zion City.

"Where are we?" he called out, and, being told, asked Walker to send word to St. Louis that everything was working in fine order.

One of the balloons seen here is supposed to be the same that passed Bloomington, Ill., at 3:30 a. m. This craft was headed for Chicago.

IN TWO DIVISIONS.

Captain DeForest Chandler, in the Americas, had been sighted near midnight at Mount Vernon, Ind., but no further definite reports has been received from him. His may be the balloon that was seen at Lafayette, Ind., at 9:05 a. m.

When the America was reported at Mount Vernon it was followed closely by another balloon, but the two may have become separated.

Reports indicate that the balloons were sailing in one general directions. One division was this morning sailing across Illinois, having been reported at Paxton, Mattoon, Charleston, Effingham and Paris. The last named town being near the Indiana line.

Another division, including at least two balloons, was traveling northerly.

AIR-RACERS SPEED IN TWO DIVISIONS IN DISTANCE FLIGHT

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 22.—The entire Middle West seems to be balloon hunting. Telephone messages are pouring in by the scores from points as far south, almost, as the Ohio River, and north to the Illinois-Wisconsin line.

The balloonists did not stick together following their departure from St. Louis. The Germans, according to a considerable height, traveled a trifle west of north, following the general direction of the Mississippi valley. The English and French voyagers, taking a middle altitude, appear to have taken a course across Central Illinois and Indiana. The Americans, staying close to the ground, went almost straight east at the start.

Reports from towns from which the balloonists are reported to have been seen indicate that all are now moving in a generally easterly direction.

Chandler Heard From.

The America was the balloon definitely to report its whereabouts. At 11:30 o'clock last night, Captain Chandler, the pilot, dropped a message at Hughes Harlow, near Mount Vernon, Ind. At 12:07 a. m. a balloon passed over Mount Vernon, very high and moving northeast with almost incredible swiftness.

Jacksonville, Ill., advices state that at 7:30 p. m. one balloon passed over and at 11:15 a second passed, going in a northeasterly direction. These balloons passed Pana, Ill., at 8 p. m. According to the best information seven of the balloons took a northeasterly direction through Illinois, and two veered south and almost west, finally turning eastward, to take up their flight across Illinois.

In the great struggle, in which are represented three American, three German, two French and one English balloon, a Hearst man, Professor H. H. Clayton of the Rine Hill observatory, Hyde Park, is aiding a German contestant, Oscar Erbsloeh, in the big balloon Pommern.

Drift in Fresh Wind.

Drifting along in a steadily freshening wind, in various directions, the nine balloons are to-day competing for the honors attached to the winning of the second international aeronautic cup race.

Witnessed by an enthusiastic gathering of 100,000 people, the start in the great international race was made yesterday afternoon from Forest Park, in the outskirts of St. Louis, shortly after 4 o'clock.

In addition to those gathered at the park, all St. Louis gazed skyward during the late afternoon and early evening, but a heavy pall of smoke obscured the view for any great distance and few of those outside of the immediate vicinity of the start were able to catch a glimpse of the contending balloons.

German Balloon Ascends First.

First to make the aerial ascent was the German balloon Pommern, filled with 77,000 feet of gas, Oscar Erbsloeh, pilot; Professor H. H. Clayton of Blue Hill observatory, Hyde Park, Mass., assistant. Then in the following order, at intervals of five minutes, the other eight balloons were sent away.

American balloon United States, 72,250 cubic feet; Major H. B. Hersey, pilot; A. F. Attechelt, aid.

French balloon, L'Aile de France, 77,000 cubic feet; Alfred Leblanc, pilot; Edgar W. Max, aid.

German balloon Duesseldorf, 77,000 cubic feet; Captain Hugo Von Abercron, pilot; H. Heldemann, aid.

English balloon Lotus II., 75,250 cubic feet, Griffith Brewer, pilot; Lieutenant Claude Brabazon, aid.

American balloon America, 77,000 cubic feet; J. McCoy, pilot; Captain C. De Chandler, aid.

French balloon, Anjou, 79,500 cubic feet; Rene Casnir, pilot; Charles Levee, aid.

German balloon Abercorn, 80,000 cubic feet; Paul Meckel, pilot; Rudolph Denig, aid.

American balloon St. Louis, 77,000 cubic feet; Allen H. Hawley, pilot; August Post, aid.

WOMAN LEAPS IN SEA FROM STEAMSHIP

Christoph Schubert, a wealthy Philadelphia tailor, arrived in Boston from Antwerp on the Red Star line steamship Manitou to-day, broken hearted. On the second day out his wife leaped from the upper deck of the steamship and was drowned. Her body could not be found. Schubert had gone to Germany especially to bring back his wife, who had left their Philadelphia home because of ill health.

She expressed her willingness to come back with her husband, but once the ship left the dock Mrs. Schubert became despondent. Although a close watch was kept on her, she managed to elude the stewardess and gained the upper deck.

There were ninety-two passengers on the Manitou and all save two or three were immigrants of the well-to-do class who had sold out their business and came here to start again. Immigration officers found over $30,000 in cash amongst them. They were mostly Germans, Flemish and Hebrews.

$15,000,000 FUND TO STOP RUN ON N. Y. BANK

MORGAN, AFTER ALL-NIGHT CONFERENCE, COMES TO RESCUE OF KNICKERBOCKER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Another disastrous crisis in Wall street was avoided to-day when J. Pierpont Morgan and other financiers, after an all-night conference, rushed fifteen million dollars to the Knickerbocker Trust Company and checked the run which threatened to sweep that institution to ruin. Alarmed by the summary removal by the clearing house committee of President Charles T. Barney, one of Moose's right-hand men, depositors earlier in the day to-day to withdraw their accounts from the institution.

So threatening did the run become at one time that police reserves were called out at the Harlem branch at Lenox avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street.

The cash which the Morgan syndicate let loose at a moment's notice did more than relieve the Knickerbocker Trust Company. It bolstered up the whole financial situation, which was in a precarious condition. Call money rates, which had been as high as 125 per cent, dropped to 6 per cent.

The stock exchange was also benefited by the assistance tided the imperiled trust company over, and it was enabled to meet all demands promptly.

When the market opened prices were demoralized, with losses in the prominent issues averaging 2½ points. Reading was 2¾ lower, Steel 2¾, Brooklyn Rapid Transit 2, Union Pacific 3¼, while Amalgamated was 2¼ lower at 44, later advancing to 46.

There was a big decline from Monday's closing, and prices reached a bad jolt over night. London had a severe break in American stocks, and prices there were from one to four points below yesterday's parity.

But for the prompt action of Morgan and the allied financiers a panic more disastrous than that which threatened Saturday night might have broken on the market to-day.

Hisgen Scores Guild for Side-Tracking His Anti-Trust Bill

GOVERNOR RESPONSIBLE FOR KILLING OF MEASURE SAYS LEAGUE CANDIDATE.

NEWBURYPORT, Oct. 22—In a speech that was received with demonstrations of approval at the City Hall, last evening, Thomas L. Hisgen, candidate for Governor on the Independence League ticket, scored Governor Guild for being responsible for the killing of the anti-discrimination bill at the last session of the Legislature.

This bill prevented a Trust from strangling to death competitors by selling rates in that section where there was competition and making up the loss by extra charge in sections where it had a monopoly of business.

Mr. Hisgen charged that Guild denounced the Standard Oil Company for its unfair methods to him and led him to believe that he would recommend drastic action against it and other Trusts. Then, Guild, he said, satisfied himself with the placid suggestion that the legislators read the laws of other States.

Hisgen Not Afraid of Guild.

The Governor, Mr. Hisgen declared, misrepresented him in his Northampton address, according to the report of it in the newspapers. Guild is reported to have said that Hisgen made accusations against him, when, as a matter of fact, the candidate asserts, he did nothing but ask him some questions about Chairman Jackson of the Railroad Commission.

Guild said that he will stop speaking to Hisgen unless he stops asking him questions, but Hisgen declares he will keep it up.

Following Mr. Hisgen's address E. Gerry Brown, the candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, made a brilliant address. Mr. Brown, by his eloquence aroused the audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm. Addresses were also made by Jennie T. Auerbach and Clement L. Pollock of Boston.

T. P. B. Houghton, a union labor man, presided. Mayor Alfred F. Hunt of this city was present at the meeting. The hall was well filled and there were many women present. The crowd was larger, it was said, than the one that attended a Whitney meeting in the same place a few evenings ago.

In the course of his speech Mr. Hisgen said:

"If Governor Guild is correctly reported in one of his newspapers, he said at Northampton on Saturday night, that he would withdrew questions I asked him at Fall River he will be reluctantly compelled to admit that all further statements from Hisgen must be ignored.

More Questions for Guild.

"Perhaps that is the easiest way for Governor Guild to dispose of me. Perhaps that is the safest course for him to pursue, but I intend to ask him some more questions in the near future and run the risk of being ignored by him.

"I say to him that he insults me when he says that my statements were put into my mouth. I don't profess to be an experienced orator, but I repeat to Governor Guild, that I know more about the Hume case, more about the rate question and the railroad transportation question than he does. I will say to you that I have offered and have furnished more evidence for the prosecution of the Hume case oil for violation of the law than any other man in Massachusetts, and I will say to you that I hold a uniform acknowledgment of the officials of the Government for the various rendered in the prosecution of this Trust.

"When I want to ask questions relative to railroads and their methods I will go out one at all times and place side to ask them. You see that I am not afraid to ask questions that you have inquired me, but you see that I am afraid to ask them in my mouth, simply because the questions asked by you are not pertinent questions. But regardless of this treatment, Governor Guild, I shall continue to ask questions for the rest of the campaign, if occasion demands that I speak.

"On the records in the State House is the journal of the Legislature of 1907, during the proroguing of the Legislature until January 15th, 1907, and I shall refer to that upon. Guild opposed such delay. This is the language of the Governor at that hearing:

"This bill, if passed, he believes would protect the people of Massachusetts from such grasping monopolies as ice, coal and oil, and asked the members of the General Court to adjourn without affording relief to the people who are now groaning the entire mass of citizens of the State.

"If Governor Guild was sincere why did he allow the Legislature to adjourn without acting upon the anti-discrimination bill of his Council?

"I will now call then took up features of the Independence League platform and said in part:

Brown Makes Strong Speech.

Mr. Brown followed. He called the attention of the audience to the fact that a war raged at the time of the Stamp Act Tronle and offered to pay the expenses of the east to be returned without interest whenever the country was able to pay it. He said that a great change and some one the patriotism of the people.

"The foe to republicanism," said the speaker, "is luxury. Perhaps if we had not so much to steal we would be better off to-day. The beginning of the great trouble in the country came with the granting of immense tracts of land to the railroads. The trouble is and has always been that the people have been careless.

"We are to-day facing a greater moral question than slavery. The negro could be happier in many cases in slavery than the white man of to-day, who is compelled to work a great deal for those who know where his next day's food is coming to come from. What is wrong? I'll tell you.

"In this great wealth producing country the great corporations and trusts have taken things that do not belong to them, and the men who produce the wealth are not left enough to live upon."

Mr. Brown denounced Hopedale and Elsie S. Draper. He said that he had received a letter recently from a woman whose husband works there, and she said that they could not get enough money with which to leave the place.

"Slavery is child slavery at Hopedale," said Mr. Brown, "and that is where the hell comes in."

Mr. Auerbach began his address with the statement that all politics is parties. "The people vote for PEOPLE AND NOT THEM and they did NOT OWN THIS STATE.

"The two old parties of to-day," he said, "own the people. Look at Boston's wealth, $20,000,000. How can he legislate for the poor? Not a man in the House of that class. He is against labor and never does a vote unless it is for capital.

"There are wrongs of the people to day that ought to be dealt with. We had black slavery once, now we have white slavery. The Independence League platform is another Golden Rule. It represents the brotherhood of man. Stop reading tabs and labels and vote for measures and men."

Mr. Pollock in his remarks said that he was glad to see women present listening to the issues of the campaign.

MORAN HURLS DENIAL AT RIVAL'S NEW CHARGES

Following the plan he has adopted since the beginning of the fight for the district attorneyship, District Attorney John B. Moran in a public statement to-day replies for the third time to each of several new "charges" made against him by Joseph A. Donnison, Democratic candidate for district attorney.

Mr. Moran is perfectly frank in his answers. Mr. Donnison's charge that Mr. Moran had quarrelled with all the judges, Mr. Moran disposes of in this way: "This charge is false. I have no quarrel with any of the judges. I have disagreed with only two of them as to my policy on probation cases."

Here is Mr. Moran's reply in full to the latest charges:

IN ADDITION TO THE CHARGES ALREADY MADE AND ANSWERED, I AM CHARGED:

TWENTY-ONE—With having neglected to prosecute Mr. Thomas W. Lawson.

This charge is false.

A tech officer on the first Monday of December, 1905. There was before the Grand Jury, sent up from the lower court, the case of the Commonwealth against Mr. Lawson for alleged libel on Mr. Barron. The members of the Grand Jury then sitting would terminate their period of office on the last day of December, 1905. Because of certain charges which I made to them, I refused to go before them or to present any evidence of any kind to them. I notified them in court that my assistant, Mr. Dwyer, would be at their service to assist them in the performance of their duties.

At their request Mr. Dwyer appeared before them and conducted the examination of witnesses. He presented the evidence against Mr. Lawson. The Grand Jury found no bill. I knew nothing then and I know nothing now about the nature of the evidence.

During that week's sitting of the Grand Jury Mr. Lawson's attorneys, Mr. Abbott and Mr. Hurlburt, appeared at the Court House, made charges of libel against Mr. Barron and requested that the evidence be presented to the Grand Jury. I turned them over to Mr. Dwyer and told him to present the evidence against Mr. Barron. Mr. Dwyer did so. Subsequently Mr. Lawson or any other witness to make any charges and they left the Grand Jury. No case against Mr. Lawson. The Grand Jury heard the evidence and found no bill against Mr. Barron.

Both Treated Alike.

I did not at that time and I do not now know what the evidence was against Mr. Barron. I do not know whether the Grand Jury acted properly or not in finding a no bill against Mr. Lawson and in finding a no bill against Mr. Barron. As one of the sworn officers of the criminal lawyers in the county, I have implicit confidence that he presented both cases to the best of his ability, and as I have heard no complaint from him as to the findings of the Grand Jury I have assumed, and do assume, that the Grand Jury acted upon the evidence.

Mr. Lawson was at that time a friend of mine. Mr. Barron I did not know. Both have been libeled alike, falsely and justly.

TWENTY-TWO—With not having prosecuted the Ice Cases with proper expedition.

This charge is false.

When a Boston newspaper made charges of conspiracy against the ice men I asked Lawyer Yerxon to make an investigation and report to me. When he was ready to report I turned him over to my assistant, Mr. Donnison, and he and Mr. Donnison worked together on the case for a week or ten days. Then Mr. Donnison presented the evidence to the Grand Jury and the Grand Jury found a bill, which, I believe, is now before Mr. Dwyer assigned. I then directed Mr. Dwyer to examine the evidence in the case and to prepare it for trial.

Mr. Dwyer has not yet sufficient time to be able to, and that was reported to me that the evidence presented to the Grand Jury was not sufficient to warrant an indictment. He put into it much time and labor, and I am informed by him that the evidence presented to the Grand Jury was sufficient to warrant an opinion to secure a verdict of guilty. I have directed him to confer with Mr. Yerxon and to secure if possible the necessary evidence.

Misapprehended the Law?

Subsequently Mr. Dwyer prepared himself to try the case in July, 1907, and ex-Attorney-General Parker, counsel for the defendants, appeared before the court and moved the case be postponed until October, 1907. This motion the court granted.

Subsequently, late in September, Mr. Parker communicated with us stating that he had learned that Mr. Dwyer was sick and that he would probably not be able to try the case for the Commonwealth and asked if willingness to let the case stand until Mr. Dwyer was fully recovered. The reason, therefore, stands for trial until Mr. Dwyer is well enough to spend a full day in court.

Whether Mr. Donnison misapprehended the law whether the Grand Jury, disregarding the law, returned a bill, I do not know. Mr. Dwyer's opinion is sound. There are one of three things took place: he may received had law from Mr. Donnison, or he disregarded his good law.

Personally I never had anything to do with the case and then I object to any preliminary hearings with two witnesses, from which I derive very little information.

TWENTY-THREE—With having quarrelled with all of the judges.

This charge is false.

I do not and no quarrel with any of the judges. I have disagreed with only two of them as to my policy on probation cases. And in these instances there was no feeling on the part of either judge or on the part of myself. We differed merely in judgment as to how far probation ought to be extended.

Respects All Judges.

While I recognize the fact that all of the judges of the Superior Court are not of equal standing as lawyers, I entertain for all of them that respect which a lawyer ought to entertain for them, and any difference of judgment between them and me I attribute to their honest opinions. And so far as I can learn they credit me with an equal honesty of purpose.

TWENTY-FOUR—With having deserted the Democratic party and supported candidates for the opposition at different times.

It is true that I supported Mayor McEttrick for Congress against William S. McNary, the regular nominee.

It is true that I supported Mayor Hart against Mr. Matthews.

It is true that I supported for mayor Mr. Curtis against Mr. Peabody.

It is true that I supported Mr. McKinley against Mr. Byran for President of the United States in 1896 because of free silver issue, but I supported Mr. Bryan in 1900 when the free silver issue was dead.

It is true that I supported Mr. Richardson for district attorney against Mr. Stevens.

It is true that twice I supported Mr. Bates for governor against Mr. Gaston.

It is true that I opposed the election of Mr. Singleton and defeated him.

This record shows an absolute independence of thought and action.

It was known to the Democracy in this state when I sought and secured the nomination for governor last year.

It was known to Mayor Fitzgerald and to Mr. Donnison when they upon the platform advocated my election as governor.

It was this independence of mind and freedom from control by the Democratic machine that secured for me between 30,000 and 43,000 Republican votes for governor.

Independent of "Machines."

It is this absolute independence and freedom from control of the Democratic machine and of the Republican machine that I expect to receive this Fall more than a majority of all the votes cast in the county.

Neither the Democratic nor the Republican machine should be allowed to control the district Attorney's office.

This office should be kept out of politics. It is established in its character and should be filled by a man of experience and ability who is absolutely free and untrammelled in the performance of his duties.

BARTLETT PREPARING STATEMENT

Great Interest in Forthcoming Declaration Among Democrats of the State.

TO MAKE POSITION PLAIN

General Charles W. Bartlett is preparing a statement to the Democrats of Massachusetts. The statement, it is expected, will be made public within a few hours.

In view of the fact that General Bartlett is some most appear on the State ticket because of nomination papers taken out in preparation for a "draw" decision, great interest has centered in his probable attitude ever since the Ballot Law Commission ruled against him and in favor of Henry M. Whitney, his rival to the Springfield convention of October 2.

"Nothing to say, as yet," has been General Bartlett's invariable reply to the newspapers ever since the decision was announced last Saturday.

"General Bartlett hasn't got anything ready yet," he said to-day at his offices in Infor International Trust building.

"That means that he will have something to say?

"All that I can say," said his secretary, "is that all the newspapers will be taken care of. The secretary declared that he couldn't tell to-day when the statement might be handed for.

Mr. Whitney speaks to-night at Fall River.

HEAVY FROST FORERUNNER OF ICY DAYS

Evidence that real bracing cold weather has arrived was to be found when the suburbanites left their homes to-day and saw the thick coating of frost on the ground. It was the first heavy frost of the Fall.

Where the sun came out to-day and got busy, the cold was gradually tempered. At the weather bureau the officials say that it is going to be the same to-day and to-morrow will be warm also. These are the temperatures recorded to-night:

6 p. m., 55; 8 p. m., 53; 10 p. m., 53; 12 m., 53; 2 a. m., 53; 4 a. m., 53; 6 a. m., 53; 8 a. m., 53; midnight, 52.

REPUBLICANS FILE PAPERS IN WARD WARS

"Regulars" in Wards 7 and 8 Face Ward Committee Contests.

Nomination papers from but ten wards were filed with the Republican city committee at 6 o'clock a. m. to-day, the last hour for receiving papers at the headquarters at No. 6 Beacon street. In but two of these wards, Wards 7 and 8, was there any contest for first place on the ballot. In Ward 8, where the Gedman faction controls the present ward committee, their papers were first over the files and in Ward 7 the "regulars," headed by Charles A. Bates, were likewise successful.

Benjamin Hats of Ward 20, father of Assistant United States District Attorney Guy A. Ham, camped out in the building all night, so as to be first on hand from Ward 20. It was unnecessary trouble, as no opposition ticket was on hand.

Axe Out for Graves.

The threatened contests for control in Wards 1 and 11 did not materialize at the first hour for filing. In Ward 1 President Edward G. Graves of the City Committee will have to fight an opposition ward committee ticket headed by the Musgrave-Campbell faction. They "have the axe out" for Graves in his home ward, the cause of his assertion of the "native son," Jesse Cloyes, in the district attorney fight.

In Ward 11, Daniel Lane, with the aid of George Holden Tinkham, is fighting Courtenay Guild, brother of the Governor. Courtenay threw fourteen of Ward 11's thirteen votes in the District Attorney convention to John K. Berry, the nasciino candidate, despite the fact that George Holden Tinkham of his own ward was a candidate.

Cox-Glidden Echo.

In Ward 24 a contest for ward committee is expected between the supporters of the two Republican naturalty candidates, Postmaster George A. Hibbard and Street Commissioner William E. Hannan.

Neither looked for first place on the ballot to-day, however. Hannan's friends now control, and will continue to do so, says "Billy."

In Ward 25 an echo of the Cox-Glidden contest can be found in the contest for control between the present ward organization headed by Isaac F. Woodbury, which backed Glidden, and the Cox supporters led by Michael Fonseca.

G. G. A. SEEKS CANDIDATE TO FACE HIBBARD

Determined to Launch Purely Citizens' Movement to Oppose Postmaster.

The leaders of the Good Government Association are busily engaged to-day in looking up a mayoralty candidate who will run on a purely citizens' movement. While they stated in their letter arraignment of the Republican organization, made last night, that it is not too late for the Republican leaders to redeem the city by bring about the withdrawal of Mr. Hibbard and unite with the Good Government Association upon a candidate who can be successful, the Good Government Association such hope.

The Good Government Association's scoring of Hibbard and its arraignment of the Republican leaders came as a surprise to the latter.

Where Does Innes Stand?

While the G. G. A. had previously rejected Hibbard, the Republican leaders fondly believed that if Hibbard was put forward as their final choice, the Good Government people would withdraw opposition. They figured that there would be nothing left for the Good Government to endorse the latter.

The proclamation of the reformers is a hard blow to Messrs. Hibbard, Hemel and Graves. With it departs all hope of a large campaign fund for Candidate Hibbard. The lesser Republican leaders, who are all enthusiastic followers of "Charley" Innes, are wondering what he'll do.

Away at Present.

It was Mr. Innes, according to the Good Government people, who agreed with Lawrence Minot upon Samuel H. Hodon as an ideal candidate, and it was with the understanding that he would be acceptable to the Republican organization that the proffer of the nomination was made to Mr. Hodson.

It is pretty certain that Innes was acting with authority, and his friends are wondering how he likes the action of Messrs. Hormel and Graves in selling Hibbard, while he was negotiating with the Good Government Association. Mr. Innes himself has been in New York since Sunday.

Boston Society Songstress Ideal Type American Woman

Catherine Clements of New York. Mrs. Bertha Cushing Child of Boston.

Miss Catherine Clements of N. Y., Artist Fisher's Type

Hair—Light brown.
Eyes—Bluish brown.
Complexion—Fair, slight color.
Chin—Well developed.
Brow—Medium.
Mouth—Firm.

Mrs. Bertha Cushing Child of Boston, Artist Garo's Type

Hair—Light brown.
Eyes—Blue.
Complexion—Fair, slight color.
Chin—Slightly pronounced.
Brow—Medium.
Mouth—Delicate, Cupids bow.

Which is the ideal type of American woman?

Is she found in Mrs. Bertha Cushing Child of Boston? Artist John N. Garo thinks so.

Or is she represented by Miss Catherine Clements of New York? Artist Harrison Fisher thinks so.

Herewith are shown the portraits of the two men's conception of the ideal American woman. Mr. Fisher's is portrayed with the brush; Mr. Garo's with the camera.

In the painting of a beautiful woman, the artist may idealize his subject. He may make slight alterations, slight additions and omissions, which may finish what nature began.

Beauty Palm For Boston.

In the photographing of a beautiful woman, the camera reproduces her just as she is. The lines are as nature created them. M. Garo believes the Boston woman is superior to the New York.

Both of these women were selected as a concrete proof of America to the claim of Maston Forestier, the French critic, that there was no ideal American woman, that there was no type that could be considered distinctly American—and distinctly beautiful.

The answer is found in the pictures of Boston's and New York's fair daughters. The Boston artist claims that the Hub has gone Gotham one better.

Society Songstress.

Mrs. Child is a pronounced blonde of the Burne-Jones type. She very early married a Southerner and was left a widow a few years ago, with three children, two of whom are twins.

Mrs. Child was educated musically abroad, and is the contralto soloist of King's Chapel and the new Jewish Temple.

She lives with her mother in Babson street, Brookline. She is Boston society's favorite songstress.

DEATH HOVERS OVER PEOPLE IN PHIPPS CASE

Second Witness in Hotel Tragedy Has Strange Ending Near Worcester.

WORCESTER, Oct. 22.—The fact that he was an important witness in the Phipps murder trial, which implicates Jack, could had been served with the subpoena only a few hours before he was found dead, leads to the belief that something besides accident caused the death of Frank J. King, who was apparently killed during a railway last night near Wilkinsonville. The medical examiner reported early that in his opinion King jumped from his wagon while the horses were running full speed. His body was found beside the vehicle, from which the horses had been loosed.

King's death is the second that has occurred among the witnesses in the Phipps case, the first being that of the defendant's sister, Margaret Phipps, who was found dying in the rear of her barn in Milford several weeks ago. The circumstances of her death have never been fully unravelled. King was proprietor of the Lyman House at Lake Quinsigamond, near where Frank Phipps, alias the Lily Pond House. Phipps was arrested, after a sensational investigation, for the murder of a man supposed to have lavished his amatty by his attentions to a waitress at the Lily Pond House. A number of prominent Worcester sporting men have been summoned as witnesses, and the prosecution would like to learn the location of several others who have hurriedly left the city.

LEAGUE MEN WIN VOTERS IN WARD 17

Kidney and Dorman Making Hot Fight in Contest for the House.

That the House contest in Ward 17 is waxing warm is evidently in the canvass for votes being made by the nominees of the Independence League, Messrs. Charles J. Kidney who was defeated by thirty-four votes several years ago for a seat in the Legislature, and Joseph P. Dorman, the well known advocate of organized labor, who toured many cities in the South two years ago for the Street Railway Employers' Union during the memorable coal strike.

Ward 17 has been noted for years for the number of independent voters who are not allied with either Democratic or Republican parties, and this year they are going to vote an independent ticket.

Messrs. Kidney and Dorman have received the nomination of the Independence League for the House of Representatives, and confidently hope to capture both offices.

Opposing the League candidates are James J. Conlon and Frederick M. J. Sheehan, the Democratic and Republican candidates. The slogan is "Ward 17 offices for Ward 17 men."

WOMEN SAVED FROM PERIL IN TENEMENT FIRE

Fourteen Persons Rescued from Death in Flames At No. 25 Broadway Extension.

Facing almost certain death by smoke and flames, fourteen men, women and children were rescued during a spectacular blaze at No. 25 Broadway Extension by the heroic efforts of firemen and policemen. Twelve persons, partially overcome by the smoke, were carried down ladders. Two others were carried from the building after the fire had reached such headway that it looked like sure death to enter. That no one suffered serious injuries was due to the prudence and bravery of the firemen and the police. Patrolman Donovan of Station Four distinguished himself by his rescue of a baby child and a boy woman from the second floor. After leaving the baby safe in the care of neighbors he attempted to return to the building, but was driven back by smoke after a brave attempt.

District Fire Chief Ryder led his men into the building and on the second floor stumbled across the form of a woman. He succeeded in getting her to the street just in time to save her from suffocation. A. G. Dunham of Protective Company No. 2 saved J. C. Murphy and his family from a top floor by carrying them down by the roof and then to an adjoining building.

The police were the first to arrive, and before the department arrived they had raised had saved as many as possible. When the firemen came the police were having a difficult time to restrain the inmates of the building who were at various windows from jumping to the street.

The fire started in the basement of the real estate office of L. Peuulio & Co. and gained great headway before being discovered. A man passing first saw it and summoned Patrolman Donovan, who, with Patrolman Hartigan, was the first to arrive at the fire. To-day an investigation is being made to determine the cause.

FELL TO DEATH IN SHOW HOUSE

The opening performance of the Gaiety Girls at the Columbia Theatre was halted yesterday by the death of a man who fell from the upper gallery to the orchestra pit.

The man, who was Frank Callahan, twenty-three of No. 9 Clifton place, Roxbury, was, according to witnesses, leaning over the rail and in some way lost his balance and pitched head foremost to the gallery below. In his fall the man hit the balcony, but rebounded off into the seats below, which were badly smashed.

Superintendent Lewis was one of the first to arrive on the scene, and the body of young Callahan was rushed to the City Hospital in an ambulance.

MISTAKEN FOR DEER DIGGING POTATOES

MERCER, Me., Oct. 22.—Frank H. Tracy, while digging potatoes just out of the village, had a very narrow escape from death by a stray rifle bullet. The bullet grazed the handle of the potato digger, broke a button in the front of Tracy's shirt and struck him in the breast, giving him a shock, but not injuring him much. The man behind the gun was in a field a mile away.

GOV. GUILD CHALLENGED BY WHITNEY

Symphony Hall was well filled last night with Whitney Democrats, who ratified the nomination of Henry M. Whitney and the other candidates on the Whitney State ticket. Mayor Fitzgerald presided over the gathering and "harmony" was the watchword.

The Mayor and Mr. Whitney made the principal addresses, the former making a caustic reply to Senator Lodge's recent attacks upon the administration of city affairs, and Mr. Whitney, dealing mainly with the tariff and the economic issues, which he has adopted as a campaign platform.

Whitney attacked Governor Guild for what he termed "hypocrisy" in the use of money during the campaign and said he would agree not to engage a single worker or a carriage at the polls if his opponent would do the same; would refuse all offers of "tainted money," and would agree not to use only the moneys necessary to carry on a legitimate campaign.

Other speakers were George A. Schofield, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor; Charles S. Hamlin, ex-Congressman John A. Sullivan, Congressman John A. Keliher and Congressman Andrew J. Peters.

Leaders on Platform.

On the platform were O. Z. F. Charest, nominee for Secretary of State; Josiah Quincy, Charles S. Hamlin, John A. Sullivan, Thomas J. Gargan, John A. Keliher, Andrew J. Peters, Arthur W. Dolan, James E. Mcconnell and about 100 others.

DR. JACKSON FILES NEW SUIT FOR DIVORCE

The taking away of his own son two months ago by Dr. John H. Jackson, a well-known Boston and Revere dentist, turns out to have been the precursor of a second suit for divorce on the part of the doctor. He went across the country to Spokane, Wash., to get the little six-year-old boy. The story of the suit came out when one of Mrs. Jacksons' lawyers, Arthur D. Hill, appeared before Judge DeCourcy in the divorce court yesterday afternoon and asked for an allowance of expenses to bring Mrs. Mary Jackson, the wife, from Spokane.

Samuel W. Forrest, one of Dr. Jackson's lawyers, opposed the application on the ground that Mrs. Jackson was living in luxury at the home of her father, Joseph Sexton, a wealthy Spokane coal man.

Dr. Jackson's counsel claimed that he made two efforts to get the son before he was successful. The first time was blocked by David H. Davidson of Cleveland, named as correspondent, who, he said, pulled a revolver. That time Mrs. Jackson threw herself between them and took the gun away from Davidson.

The divorce case is on the calendar for this session of the divorce court. Judge DeCourcy deferred action on the application for expenses.

Last June, the Jacksons filed cross libels for divorce, but after a spirited hearing the case was thrown out of court.

LEAGUE TELLS VOTERS WAY TO DOWN TRUST

William N. Osgood Declares It Is Time to Break Monopoly Rule.

ADDRESS AT MALDEN

At an Independence League rally held at Malden last evening William N. Osgood spoke in part as follows:

"It is a pleasure to address an audience in Malden upon the important issues of the present campaign. I say this because I have lived among you and know the kind of people you are and nowhere can be found a community composed of citizens more earnest and true in their friendships and their devotion to right principles and government.

"As elsewhere you have not in the past expressed yourselves as freely as you might have done upon the great questions of the day, simply because you have not had a proper political organization through which you might find expression.

Such an opportunity is now afforded by the Independence League, whose fundamental purpose is to extend real popular government, and destroy pretended and hypocritical popular government. The sovereignty of the people we want to make a fact and not a fiction.

Work for the People to Do.

As a candidate for a legal office, that of Attorney-General upon the State ticket, I might be expected to say a few words upon the subject of the law. The law, as administered, both as to criminal and civil law and as equity, is open to the criticism of favoring the powerful and conservative more than the poor and lowly suitor.

Courts of equity, according to the comparisons of some of the Judges of the highest tribunals, are uncertain as to the law, especially in trade disputes.

"There is great difficulty in ascertaining in those cases just what constitutes force and intimidation. As I said when Chief Justice Field of the Supreme Court so stated.

"Therefore, there is work for the people to do. They should elect representatives who would define and limit these doubtful powers, so that the striking workman and the Judges may know just how far they ought to go.

"So, in regard to the law pertaining to personal injuries. The poor suitor should be placed upon an equality in our courts with the Employers' Liability Insurance Companies, the railroads, telephone and other public utility companies, and have equal access to evidence for the securing of justice when cases come to trial.

Power to Modify Laws.

"If the State cannot furnish such a poor suitor with able counsel, experts and money to render him equal in court to his more favored antagonists, it should at least enact some law like the Workmen's Compensation act, which would at least furnish him with certain, even if moderate, compensation, in the event of injury. At any rate, many of the harsh rules should be modified.

"The power is in your hands to so modify the law. By direct legislation you can do it, or by compelling your representatives to obey your instructions to that effect. By studying our platform and declaration of principles you will see that the Independence League is battling for you.

"Allow me a word about the great increase in the cost of living, the great advance in the prices of all necessaries of life, was caused by trusts, combines and monopolies.

"How they been enabled to do this?

"Through the special rates and favors they have secured from the railroads.

"In this way they have controlled and cornered the markets and production. Public ownership of public utilities will prevent this.

"You wish to know how? By restoring business in general to natural and normal channels and methods, so that no concern can destroy the advantage of a locality.

Hisgen Platform in Himself.

"Every merchant and every manufacturer and every wage-earner, for that matter, should have and enjoy the advantage of locality. It ought not to be possible for a group of men in San Francisco or Chicago to have any advantage over a citizen of Boston or Malden, and he would not have it if the means of transportation were owned by the government and equal and uniform rates were given to all.

"But this opens up too great a question to be discussed to-night in detail. But our position in this great question is not only just and right, but it is safe and conservative in the best sense when the public welfare is considered. Think this great subject over and see if I am not correct.

"Our candidate for governor, Thomas L. Hisgen, is a platform in himself. He is an honest, sincere and courageous man. In business he has successfully fought the most gigantic monopoly in existence.

"He stands ready to fight them politically as well as commercially and he deserves your support.

"He is bound to triumph because his principles are in the true interests of the people who admire Jefferson and Lincoln and who are devoted to fair play and justice for all."

MILKMAN DRIVES INTO EXCAVATION

Declaring that there was no warning of danger, James W. Glazer, driving for D. Whiting & Co. milk contractors, drove his horse into an excavation made by the Elevated workmen near the surface tracks on Causeway street early to-day, breaking the animal's neck, from which it died instantly.

John Foley, the night watchman, said that the excavation was surrounded by lanterns and that the driver must have been asleep.

BANISHMENT IS PRICE PAID BY WALLINGS FOR LIBERTY

Special to the Boston American.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 22.—The Russian authorities have notified the American embassy here that William English Walling, the American millionaire, and his wife, Anna Strunsky, and her sister, Miss Rose Strunsky, have been released from prison, following their arrest for activity in behalf of the Russian revolutionary movement.

As the price of their liberty, they have been notified that they are banished from Russia and must not return under penalty of arrest and imprisonment.

The release was effected following representations made by the United States government.

"No Cause for Arrest."

Walling Wires.

The following despatch to the editor of the AMERICAN has been received:

"ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 22.

"We have been released, no cause for our arrest or detention having been found. Our treatment courteous. We leave St. Petersburg on Wednesday.

"WALLING."

Government Demands Immediate Release.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The State Department called instruction to the American embassy at St. Petersburg to demand the immediate release of William English Walling, the millionaire American socialist writer; his wife, who was Miss Anna Strunsky, a socialistic novelist, and her sister, Miss Rose Strunsky.

These orders were cabled to St. Petersburg immediately on the receipt of a telegram from William E. English of Indianapolis, an uncle of Walling, who officially demanded the protection of the American government for the Russian prisoners.

Romance of Walling Like That of Stokes.

A common purpose—a dream which seemed like the wildest romance to the prosaic minds brought together William English Walling and the beautiful and talented Anna Strunsky. It was nothing else than the freedom of Russia, which they proposed to bring about when they exiled themselves from their friends and home in New York and took up the burdens of the Russian revolutionary society in St. Petersburg.

William English Walling was one of the coterie of young men of the university settlement in Eldridge street, which included in its number Robert Hunter, then head of the settlement; James Graham Phelps Stokes, Lillian Wald, Walter Weyl and Ernest Poole. In their interest among the lowly each of these three young men found his romance. The marriage of Mr. Stokes and Miss Pastor startled university society to which he belonged no less than did the marriage of his sister and Mr. Hunter. Mr. Scott, now a famous novelist, found his bride in Miss Finn, a settlement worker, who, like Miss Pastor, had known poverty. And Mr. Walling and Miss Strunsky were married abroad, after their common mission brought them together in St. Petersburg.

Miss Strunsky first achieved literary fame in this country as co-author with Jack London of "The Kempton-Wace Letters," a remarkable book which attracted a great deal of attention several years ago. She has written and published extensively, although a very young woman, and her sister, Rose Strunsky, has shared her labors for the oppressed people of Russia. HUNT ROMANIC FOR ANARCHIST

Among the 1,420 passengers brought to Boston by the Steamship Romanic, arriving late yesterday, were fourteen distressed American members of the crews of different whaling vessels, who had been landed at the Azores because of illness, and whose passage home had been arranged by the American consul at St. Michael.

The Romanic brought 31,000 barrels of mulga grapes, a new record cargo, for the passengers aboard, seventeen were in the saloon, 168 in the second cabin and 1,429 in the steerage. The examination of the latter to-day will be a rough one, as it having been reported that a dangerous anarchist is among them.

Four attractive girls who have been touring Europe without the services of a chaperon returned on the Romanic. They are Miss Harriet S. Cottrell of Newport, Miss Theodora Borden of Fall River, Miss Ethel K. Shaw-Norwell of Boston and Miss Edith C. Parker of Trenton.

YOUNG MEADE WED IN SECRET

News of the secret marriage of Robert L. Meade, Jr., son of Brigadier-General Meade, and Miss Amy Carver of No. 4 Perrin street, Roxbury, last July has just leaked out.

"We wished to be married quietly and we were. That's all," said Mrs. Meade, but neither Mr. nor Mrs. Meade would say anything more as to why they chose this method of assuming the bonds of matrimony. Both emphatically denied, however, that parental objections had anything to do with their secret move.

The young couple were married in this city July 29. They are now residing on Allerop street, Norfolk Downs.

5 IMPORTANT TRANSFERS BY ARCHBISHOP

Some of Leading Clergmen of Archdiocese Affected By Shift.

NEW CATHEDRAL RECTOR

Archbishop O'Connell has made five important transfers, affecting a number of the best-known clergymen of the archdiocese. They are as follows:

Rev. Father George J. Patterson, for ten years pastor of St. Vincent's Church in South Boston, appointed rector of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, to succeed Rev. John T. Mullen.

Rev. Father John T. Mullen, rector of the Cathedral for over two years, appointed pastor of St. Michael's Church in Hudson, succeeding Father Cusack, recently made rector of St. Rose's parish, Chelsea.

Rev. Fr. James R. Troy, for several years pastor of St. Catherine's Church, Norwood, appointed pastor of St. Vincent's Church, South Boston, to succeed Rev. Fr. Patterson.

Chancellor Promoted.

Rev. Fr. Thomas J. MacCormack, seven years chancellor of the diocese, promoted to be pastor of St. Catherine's Church, Norwood, succeeding Fr. Troy.

Rev. Fr. M. J. Splaine, D. D., vice-chancellor of the archdiocese, promoted to be chancellor, succeeding Fr. MacCormack.

Rev. Fr. George J. Patterson is a Bostonian by birth, and has been a priest about thirty years. He served in St. Patrick's in Roxbury for some years and then went to Abington, where he was pastor and about ten years ago he was transferred to St. Vincent's parish in South Boston to become pastor there.

Rev. Dr. John T. Mullen, who becomes a pastor at St. Michael's Church in Hudson, is one of the most beloved priests of the archdiocese. He has for a dozen years or more been stationed at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, and for the last three years or so he has been the rector. His administration of the Cathedral affairs has been perfect, and under his direction and supervision wonderful changes have been effected in the short time he has been in charge there. He is noted for his labors in behalf of temperance.

Rev. Fr. Thomas J. MacCormack, who succeeds Father Mullen, and who goes to Norwood to be pastor of St. Catherine's parish, is a widely known former chancellor was also master of ceremonies at the Cathedral, and by reason of his abilities of note he was often said to be equal of any ceremonial master in the United States. His knowledge of canon law was unlimited, and no one knew where he was not perfectly versed in the most minute details. Father James R. Troy, who leaves Norwood and comes to South Boston, is well known in the archdiocese.

On many occasions he has been invited to preach on auspicious occasions in churches of the archdiocese, and he is regarded as one of the most learned clergymen in this vicinity.

New Chancellor a Young Man.

The new chancellor of the archdiocese, Rev. Fr. M. J. Splaine, is one of the best known of the younger clergymen in the city. He was trained for the priesthood in Rome, and it was while Archbishop O'Connell was president of the American College in Rome that Rev. Dr. Splaine was a resident student.

Fr. Splaine, in addition to his duties as vice-president of the archdiocese, has also done considerable parish work in the cathedral and has been of great assistance to the rector here. He was also often pressed into service as assistant master of ceremonies on notable occasions, and exhibited a keen knowledge of ceremonial.

VISITS ABROAD; OFFICIALS BAR RETURN HOME

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A victim of peculiar technicality in the immigration laws, Thomas Neary, 52 years old, who has lived in the United States for twenty-four years, is being held at Ellis Island, and unless some one can be found who is willing to offer a small bond for him he will be sent back to Ireland next Wednesday.

Neary went to Ireland to see his brother, who lives in Bangor, County Mayo. Although he has spent practically all of his life in Manchester, N. H., Neary has never become a naturalized citizen. His wife and daughter are in Manchester and he has a son in the United States navy. Another son who was in the navy died while in service.

Must Furnish Bond.

Upon returning from his visit to Ireland Neary was held up at Ellis Island because of some minor affliction. Commissioner Watchorn took an interest in his case and sent a special report to Washington, but he was told that unless a bond was furnished for Neary the old man would be deported.

Special to the Boston American.

MANCHESTER, Oct. 22.—Thomas Neary has lived in Manchester for twenty years and all of his acquaintances speak well of him. He was always a good, steady worker and has a quiet temperament. His wife died about seven years ago and since then he has lived at No. 49 Central street.

Has Job Ready Here.

He went to Ireland for a visit four months ago. His health is aggravated sore on his leg, and this is believed here to be responsible for his detention at Ellis Island.

Thomas Finnerty, a plasterer here, said today that if Mr. Neary could get back to land he would see that he had steady employment at the plastering trade, and that there would be no chance of his becoming a burden on the public.

Neary's daughter, Agnes, lives at Lowell.

MAN HUNT IN KITTERY WOODS

The others followed, but after a running gun fight, Kennison escaped.

Shattuck, department president Women's Relief Corps; Hon. Sherwin L. Cook, division patriotic instructor Sons of Veterans, and Grace M. P. Brook, past department president.

Musical Numbers.

Mrs. George D. Williams will give a reading and there will be selections by Marjorie Marble, pianist; Grace P. Brown, violinist; Florence Colby, soprano, and George P. Flood, vocalist.

A decided Chinese atmosphere pervaded the Fair yesterday, for the decorations of all the halls, many of the booths, the costumes of attendants and the burning of joss sticks, combined to give visitors of about 1,000 Chinese as guests, gave it the oriental effects desired. The management had widely advertised "Chinese Day," and the thousands who visited the halls expressed the spectacle as such. Through the Chinese mission 1,000 tickets had been distributed to the Chinese of Greater Boston and their appearances each accepted the invitation.

One of the features was the appearance of thirty-one Chinese women and children from Boston's Chinese colony. They were brought to the fair from the vicinity of Harrison avenue and Oxford place in three large automobiles. Practically every woman and child of Chinatown accepted the offer of the management and all went were delighted with the programme prepared for them.

Chinatown's Reception.

On their arrival they held a reception in the women's department and then went on a tour of the halls, the decorations and costumes causing many ejaculations of delight, especially from the younger children. A feature of the musical program which apparently delighted the Chinese portion of the audience was the playing of a band of six Chinese musicians brought over to the Fair from Philadelphia.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—Empress Augusta Victoria is forty-nine years old today, and the city, for the first time in seven years, has sent an official congratulation.

But since then, repeatedly and publicly, the Empress has expressed herself as being pleased with the manner in which Berlin's being administered, and the grateful city fathers have decided to lay aside the old grudge and join with the rest of the Fatherland in expressing their loyalty.

THAYER LOSES; RODE ON B. & A.

The usual lateness of trains on the Boston & Albany defeated John Alden Thayer's intentions of having his name appear as candidate for Attorney-General on the Whitney ticket. Mr. Thayer's name will not be found on the Democratic ballot, simply because the train due to leave Worcester at 3:27 p. m. yesterday was thirty-five minutes late, and there was no possibility of his getting to Boston in time to make a personal acceptance of the candidacy at the office of the Secretary of State before the time limit expired at 5 p. m. yesterday. This also kills the name of James E. McConnell, formerly of Fitchburg, but now of Boston, appears in his place.

GEM-BEDECKED BRIDE QUITS AGED MERCHANT

Diamonds Galore and $75 Monthly Pin Money Failed to Hold Mrs. Abbott.

Although he allowed her $75 a month pin money, bought her diamonds galore and let her run the house as she pleased, his wife Ira deserted him three years ago and has never returned, according to the story told by Hiram F. Abbott in the Suffolk divorce court before Judge Charles DeCourcy.

Mr. Abbott is a prosperous business man with offices at No. 146 Roseland street. He was married at Providence in 1894 and lived in sumptuous apartments at The Berlaque, Massachusetts avenue, after the honeymoon. His wife was twenty years younger than he and on this fact he attributed much of the trouble which followed.

"She often went out evenings and stayed late, you understand," said Mr. Abbott, "but when I remonstrated with her and asked her where she used to be she would reply it's none of your business. She said she wanted younger company and was going to have it."

Moved Away During Absence.

"I allowed her $75 a month pin money besides paying all the household bills, clothing, millinery and all other bills."

"How much money did she have when she went away?" asked the Judge.

"Well, I don't know, but I do know that she had fourteen diamonds at the time, which I had given her. I had been away on a short business trip and on my return, October 12, 1903, discovered the flat empty. She had moved during my absence. I hired a detective to locate her, but I could not find her, and do not know her whereabouts at present."

Other witnesses corroborated Mr. Abbott, and he was granted a decree nisi.

"Missionary Worker" Deserted.

Susan E. Gorman, head of the Young Women's Home on Warrenton street, who described herself as a "missionary worker," was granted her freedom from her husband, James, whom she married in Toronto in 1886.

"He left me eleven years ago, while we were living in Buffalo, N. Y., and I have never seen or heard from him since," she testified. "For two months before he deserted me he had not spoken a word to me, although living in the same house. While we lived in Buffalo he did not support me. In order to make both ends meet I had to hire out as a pastry cook in a restaurant. I have supported myself ever since."

"Do you know where he is now?" asked Judge DeCourcy.

"No," responded the witness.

"Do you know whether he is alive or dead? A.—No.

"Then under those circumstances why do you want a divorce?

A.—Well, I don't want to be tied to him any longer. I think I have been tied to him too long now.

Stepping Stones to Success!

This man gave not only a recipe for wise living, but also a definition for true education. He had found out what education really means. It means, instead, a fund of useful facts which may be used in one's business, and a general alertness about outside affairs. That is why the New Werner 20th Century

READ THEIR TESTIMONY

If You Have Rheumatism or Any Other Ailment Get a Bottle of One of Munyon's Cures.

DRUGGISTS BUSY

Supplying Their Customers With These Safe Little Specifics—They Are All Absolutely Harmless and Are Guaranteed Under the Pure Food and Drug Law.

The free distribution of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure and Kidney Cure from the office of the Boston American closed last evening. Thousands of people came to test these celebrated remedies. During the day many came in and testified that they had been cured by some one of the Munyon Remedies.

The crowd was not composed of any particular class. The people followed in the mechanic. The lady in silk with the plainer dress. Some came in carriages. Some hobbled along. Others came to have an abiding faith in Munyon Remedies.

Some of the testimony was truly marvellous. More than one woman declared that they would not be without Munyon's Remedies in the house.

Maurice Levi, who, with his famous band, entertained every night this week at Young's Pier, Atlantic City, last Summer, and now performs musical delights at Anna Held, playing at the Colonial Theatre this city, says: "I suffered with rheumatism for over 2 years. I was recommended to try a bottle of Munyon's RX Rheumatic Cure, and after using two bottles found that they had completely cured me. I am only too glad to recommend this wonderful cure to any one suffering from rheumatism."

Mr. Edwin Cumma, 16 Batavia street, Boston, says he could never get along without some of Munyon's Remedies. Ask him how he got rid of the Malaria, Chills and Neuralgia Cures set him about his business. Also will tell you Warner's 6XX Washington street, who will be glad to tell you how Munyon's Rheumatism Cure cured him.

Neil Doherty, 103 Warrenton street, states that Munyon's 5X Rheumatism Cure completely restored him to health, and he would not be without Munyon's Remedies in his home.

Mark Woosley, who is the leading comedian of the "Parisian Widows," and without a doubt the best-known German comedian on the American stage, stopped in at the American office and stated: "I suffered with kidney trouble in its worst form, tried everything, but nothing seemed to help me. About six months ago I saw Munyon's 5X Kidney Cure advertised and bought a bottle, and am thankful to say that it has completely restored me to good health, and I am recommending it to Everywhere I find anyone suffering with kidney trouble.

Munyon's homeopathic remedies are absolutely harmless and are sold under the pure food and drug act, but we consider Professor Munyon's curative powers the best, as he has always advocated pure drugs. Be sure, try any one of the remedies, and if you are not fully satisfied I will refund your money.

Have You Selected Your Winter Suit? This May Help You

By Beatrice Fairfax

HAVE you bought your Winter suit yet?

I suppose you have not, as it is a trifle early, so I am going to give you a little sisterly advice.

In the first place, don't choose a color simply because it is fashionable.

Purple, for instance, is the color of the season, but purple is not becoming to all complexions.

The brunette with warm, rich coloring looks stunning in purple, but the pale, colorless blonde looks "washed out" in it.

To the brown-haired lassie all shades of browns are becoming.

Blue suits Miss Blue Eyes equally well, and if you have plenty of color gray will look well on you.

If you are sallow, do not think of wearing green; it will make you look ten times more sallow.

Style to Buy

AND now about the style of suit you buy. Don't, I beg of you, get a coat with short sleeves. An inch or so of red, chapped elbow is not a pretty sight, and that is what you will have if you wear short sleeves in Winter.

The short skirt is serviceable and pretty if your feet are neatly and handily shod.

Wear boots, not low shoes with high heels, for if your ankles are cold you will feel chilly all over.

Don't buy on extreme hat, and remember that if your nose is large a hat that sticks away out in the back will make it look larger.

Have your hat trimmed with good material, and it will last all Winter, but if the trimming is poor and flimsy it will look shabby long before Spring.

I know that the temptation to indulge in feathers and such finery is great, but unless a feather is part of it is no adornment to a hat, and, unfortunately, good feathers are expensive.

If you want to look well and keep well through the Winter you will wear warm underclothing. This climate is changeable and trying, and the only way to avoid colds is to wear the proper kind of clothing.

Light weight flannels and a light but warm petticoat will keep you comfortable.

Be Comfortable

THE trouble with most girls is that they sacrifice comfort to looks. They will wear a coat that is not half warm enough simply because they think it is pretty or stylish.

You make a great mistake in that, girls, for if you are insufficiently clothed you will look pinched and blue and consequently far from pretty. Did you ever think any one looked pretty who had a red nose and who looked blue and shivery?

It is bad policy to muffle your throat too much, but it is equally foolish to expose it to the wind by wearing only thin silk or muslin neckwear.

Most of the girls who work spend their days in stifling, over-heated offices. For that reason it is best to wear a moderately thin waist and then to wear a silk scarf under their coats when going out.

There are hosts of pretty things in the shops, and I am sure that you will all look smart and pretty in your Winter outfits.

All I ask of you is to exercise common sense as well as good taste in the selection of them.

WOMEN OF FASHION REVIVE CRAZE OF WEARING EARRINGS

Empress of Russia Resurrects the Fashion

EARRINGS are the latest fashion over which women are going mad. From the women of society through all ranks, including the chorus girls and saleswomen, every woman this season will seek to outshine every other woman in her class in wearing pendants from her ears.

And this is all because the Empress of Russia has revived the old custom of hanging in her pierced lobules made of priceless jewels.

In each one of the Empress's earrings is a matchless solitaire diamond and a large pear-shaped pearl. These earrings are worth a king's ransom.

One of the first to bring this new fashion to America was Mrs. Elinor Glyn, the noted English novelist, who recently came here to study the American as a type.

Among the women leaders of fashion who already have adopted the fashion are many of the most prominent in the affairs of society.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish wears in her earrings two exquisite star sapphires and perfectly rounded pearls.

Each of Mrs. Harry Lehr's earrings contains a solitaire diamond of enormous size with a pendant pink pearl.

Mrs. Gladys Vanderbilt's earrings show a quaint design of Austrian workmanship, a gift from her fiance, Count Szechenyi. They are finely wrought dull gold, with pearl settings.

Mrs. Herman Oelrichs has earrings of leaf design in gold with topaz settings.

The new earrings are mostly of nineteenth century design, but differ from those of our grandmothers in very distinct ways. They are less heavy in workmanship and do not hang nearly almost to the shoulder of the wearer.

WAYS TO REMOVE SPOTS

KEROSENE may be removed by the use of fuller's earth. Cover the stain with a thick layer of the fuller's earth and let it remain twenty-four hours, then brush off.

Lampblack is removed by wetting with kerosene and washing with some good soap and warm water.

A HINT IN HYGIENE

A GOOD and cheap ventilator for a bed room can be made from a piece of board, the length of the window-sash and about three inches broad, is placed at the bottom of the frame so as to fit tightly. The sash is then shut down on the board. This leaves a space between the lower and upper window-sashes. Fresh air enters the room through this space and flows upward, and the air in the room is renewed without a draught being felt.

Washing the Dishes Can Be Made Easy

ONE of the chief indications of a well-regulated household is the rapidity with which breakfast, dinner or tea things are cleared away and restored to their respective places, and how to excel in this respect is something every young housewife should know.

Where there is a full domestic staff, with a constant supply of hot water, this is, of course, an easy task; but even under the most favorable circumstances a little good management will greatly simplify the task of washing up.

Take care that the kettle or boiler is filled before the commencement of the meal, then at the conclusion there will be no delay caused by waiting for hot water. See that you have large, dry, clean towels to dry or polish the dishes with.

Begin with the glasses, cups, saucers and other similar articles, reserving till the last those which have been used for greasy food.

If you have a plate rack over the sink, so much the better; if not, let the plates drain for a minute or two on a thickly folded towel, after scraping off the food and rinsing in hot water; this makes your cloth last dry all the longer and lessens the labor of polishing.

CLEANING ENAMEL BATHS

THE best way to clean a white enamel bath is to put a little turpentine in a saucer, get a small piece of rag and well rub the bath all over with the turpentine; then get a basin of warm water and scrub the bath with the rag, and rinse well with warm water. No matter how dirty the bath is, the dirt will disappear like magic.

UNBREAKABLE BUTTONS

PEARL buttons on washing blouses and children's smocks, etc., are continually being broken in the washing. Mothers would find a great saving of labor if, instead of using pearl buttons, they covered ordinary linen buttons with the same material as the garment is made from. They look much prettier and last as long as the garment.

Lillian Russell's Secrets of Beauty As Told by Herself

By Lillian Russell

HERE is the second article written for the BOSTON AMERICAN by Lillian Russell, the comedienne and American stage beauty, on the subject of good looks and their preservation.

Miss Russell's complexion, milk-white, and her skin satin-smooth as a child's, the absence of the sagging facial muscles she attributes to a youth passed out of doors. Miss Russell considers a deep breath of air drawn into the lungs, after it has been cleansed by its long sweep across the lake, to be a better tonic than a glass of champagne.

Miss Russell has no complicated system of exercises. Her methods are simple. She does no more than the average girl or woman can do, provided she sticks to it.

Cheerfulness, freedom from worry and the firm belief that all will end well will do more than any one young and good to look upon than exercise, cosmetics or specialists.

Miss Russell writes to-day on bathing:

SLEEP with the windows of your bedroom open from the top and bottom. Get all the fresh air you can. Don't be afraid of the night air. Keep yourself comfortable while sleeping with plenty of warm, light bed clothing, and open the window early in the day to have your bedroom well ventilated before you retire.

When you arise in the morning go to the window and inhale the fresh air of the morning. Breathe it deeply into the lungs. Swell your chest to its fullest capacity and hold your breath as long as you can, so that every particle of dead air will be expelled. Do this fifteen or twenty times. The world will begin to brighten at once.

Run through a few simple exercises, such as swinging your arms, raising and lowering your body with your hands resting on your hips.

Any simple movements that will start the blood circulating will do. Then you are to a cold bath. If you do not care to use a tub, rub yourself down with a wet towel. You breathe through the pores. A dash of water opens them up and is really exercise for them.

Never Use a Tub

I never use a tub. I haven't one in any of my homes. I always use a tepid shower bath with a dash of cold water. I am opposed to the cold plunge.

The object of bathing is to remove the impurities from the skin. Plunge into cold water and what happens? The pores close instantly to protect themselves, just as the eyes close at the first sign of danger. The impurities are sent back into the system and sealed up to do poisonous work.

The work is not interrupted by the next cold bath, nor the next, nor the next. It continues until your next warm bath, when the pores are opened and allowed to do their work.

Every one has not got a shower bath, but one can get just as good an effect by squeezing a sponge filled with water over the head. Rub yourself down briskly with a rough towel. Get the skin to glow.

But use plenty of fresh water. There is nothing more harmful to the skin than to cover the body with water impregnated with impurities. I hold that the bath tub is responsible for more bad complexions than any of the other evils attacked by specialists.

I believe in a good healthy perspiration. I try to work one up quickly in my morning exercises. You can take your deep breathing, run through a few exercises and take a bath all in fifteen minutes in the morning.

You never can tell until you have tried it how much better you will feel all day. It is worth all the doctors and medicine in the world. You will go down to breakfast content with the world and ready to eat any of the ordinary breakfast dishes with a good appetite.

Shower Bath Best

I have tried bad baths, needle baths, Turkish baths, but I prefer the shower. Sometimes I take as high as five baths a day when I am training, something I have to do occasionally.

I never use creams or cosmetics with my baths. I use cosmetics on the stage when it is necessary, but avoid them as much as possible.

Don't be afraid to use water. As there is so much of it on this earth—and later we have found plenty of it in stocks—it must have been put here for some use other than to drink and sail on.

Don't let your morning exercises become routine. Vary them as much as possible. One of the best things to do when you get up to sing. Never mind what the quality of your voice, or what you sing, but open your mouth as wide as you can and sing as loud as possible.

One of the most senseless superstitions I ever heard was the story told to me by a friend that one should not sing in the morning, as she would be sure to weep before night.

Now that you have had your say, Lillian, let me give you some advice.

Never get angry before 10 o'clock in the morning. If you can get along until then without losing your temper you will be all right.

To-morrow I shall write on the subject of simple exercises.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

A QUARREL

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young lady of twenty, going with a young man four years my senior.

To-day my friend called to take me out to lunch, and on our way back home he smoked a cigarette, over which we had an argument, which is due to the fact that he had promised me he would never smoke a cigarette again—at least, in my presence. He answered that he could smoke whatever he liked, and nobody could dictate to him what he should do. While going home I didn't say a word and left him at my door without saying goodby. About two hours later I called him up on the 'phone and told him I was going to send back all the trinkets he gave me, and then dropped the receiver. Will you kindly give your opinion about this young man and advise me how to act, as I think very much of this young man, and he thinks likewise of me.

J. G. S.

YOUR friend wrote me on this subject, and I answered his letter some days ago. He did not say that he had promised you not to smoke in your presence. I told him that gentlemen did not smoke when talking with ladies. It is a small thing to quarrel over if you really love each other, and I would advise you to have a good talk and settle your differences.

VERY UNREASONABLE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a stenographer and am very friendly with a young lady employed in the same place with me.

I had an appointment for the Mardi Gras with four gentlemen friends, one of whom traveled fifty miles for the occasion, and as this was a very busy day the young lady and myself were detained an hour later than usual. When I started home she asked me to wait for her, which I did, and she knew I had the appointment, and I informed her that I was already late, so I phoned to my friends to wait for me.

After delaying fifteen minutes waiting for the young lady we walked to the station as usual, but she asked me to see her home, which would have delayed me another hour. I answered friends were waiting for me I did not care to disappoint them, however, insisted on my seeing her home. It appeared to me as if she was trying to prevent me from keeping the appointment, so I refused to see her home and she went away angry. Did I do right? CONSTANT READER.

I THINK that she was very unreasonable, and that you did quite right in not acceding to her request. You should have disappointed your friend who had come so far to see you engagement, and she should not have asked you to do so. Some girls are like that, however; they cannot bear to have a man friend show any courtesy to any one but themselves.

THE TURN OF THE BALANCE

A Thrilling Romance of American Life---By Brand Whitlock

Copyright, 1907, by American Journal-Examiner.

AS he passed the men looked at Archie, some of them with envious smiles. But Archie knew none of them; not Delaney, with the white hair; not the Pole, who had been convicted of arson; not the Kid, not old Deacon Sammy, who still wore his gold-rimmed glasses, nor Harry Graver, the identity was submerged, like that of all the convicts in that prison, like that of all the forgotten men of the world. The men marched by, company after company, until enough to make a regiment, two regiments, had passed them. A guard led Archie across the yard to the administration building.

As they entered a long, lean man, whose sunk legs stretched from the chair on which half way across the room, it seemed, to rock their heels on a desk, turned and looked at them. He was smoking a cigar very slowly, and he lifted his eyelids heavily. His eyes were pale blue—for some reason Archie shuddered.

"Here's a fresh fish, Deputy," said the guard.

The deputy warden of the prison, Ball, fixed the eyes again on his cigar.

"Back again, eh?" he said.

Archie stared, and then he said:

"I've never served before."

"Oh, you've served, eh?" said the deputy. "The bull can don't go in this dump! I know you all!" The receiving guard looked at Archie over, trying to recall him.

The deputy warden let his heavy feet fall to the floor, leaned forward, took a cane from his desk, got up, looked the cane into the awkward angle of his left elbow, and shambled into the rear office, his long legs unhinging with a strange suggestion of the jack-step he was so proud of being able to retain in the prison by an evasion of the law. A convict clerk hovered in an obsequious record on his high desk, then in a mechanical way he dipped a pen into the ink, and stood waiting.

"What's your name?" asked the deputy. Archie told him.

"Age?"

"Twenty-three."

"Father and mother living?"

"Yes."

"Who shall we notify if you die while you're with us?"

Archie started; and the deputy laughed. "Notify them."

"Ever convicted before? No? Why, Koerner, you really must not lie to me like that."

When the statistical questions were finished the deputy said:

Some Advice

"Now, Koerner, you got a stretch in the sentence; you'll gain a month's good time if you behave yourself; don't talk; be respectful to your superiors and obey the rules; you can write one letter a month, have visitors once a month, receive all letters and papers addressed to you. Your number is 48,963. Take him and frisk him, Jimmy."

The deputy warden hooked his cane over his arm and shambled out. Archie watched him, strangely fascinated. Then the guard touched him on the shoulder, tossed a bundle of old clothing over his arm, and said:

"This way."

They passed into bathe, then the barber shaved him, and he donned his prison clothes, which were of blue and white, worn by the trusties he had seen at the gate of the prison. But the clothes did not fit him; the trousers were too tight at the waist and far too long, and they took a strange and unaccountable shape on him, the shape, indeed, of the wasted figure of an old convict who had died of consumption in the hospital two days before.

The guard took Archie to the dining room, deserted now, and he sat down at one of the long tables and ate his dinner soup and drank the coffee made of toasted bread—his first taste of the "hoot-leg" he had heard his late companions talk about.

And then the idle house, stark and gloomy, with silent convicts ranged around the wall. On an elevated chair at one end, where he might have the seven light that fell through the one high window, an old convict, who once had been a preacher, read aloud.

He read as if he enjoyed the sound of his own voice, but few of the prisoners listened. They sat there stolidly, with heavy, hardened faces. Some dozed, others whispered, others, when the prison had almost been lulled to sleep, began to sing.

The idle house was still, save for the voice of the reader and the constant crooning of a convict in a corner. Archie, incapable, like most of them, of concentrated attention, sat and looked about. He was dazed, the prison supper was already falling heavily on his mind, and he was passing into that state of mental numbness that made the blank in his life when he was in the workhouse with Mason.

Longings.

He thought of Mason for a while, and wondered what his fate and that of Dillion had been; he thought of Gosta, and of his mother and father, of Gibbs and Curley, wondering about them all; wondered about that strange life, already dim and incredible, he had so lately left in what to convicts is represented by the word "outside."

He wished that he had been taken with Mason and Dillion to the Big House at Kouka—thought of everything but the theft of the revolver, which now seemed a relation to his real life.

Then the entrance of a contractor brought diversion. The contractor, McBride, a man with a red face and closely cropped white hair, smoking a cigar, the aroma of which was eagerly sniffed in by the convicts, came with the receiving guard. At the guard's command Archie stood up, and the contractor, narrowing his eyes, inspected him through the smoke of his cigar. After a while he nodded and said:

"He'll do—looks to me like he could make belts. Ever work at a machine?" he suddenly asked.

Archie shook his head.

"Put him on Bolt R," said the contractor, "the one learn."

The day ended somehow; the evening came, with supper in the low-celled, dim lighted hall, then the cells.

"You'll lock in 6 6," said the guard.

Hope Dies.

Archie marched to the cell house, where, inside the brick shell, the cells rose, four tiers of them. The door locked on Archie, and he looked about the bare cell where he was to spend a year.

For an hour certain small privileges were allowed; favored convicts, in league with officials, peddled pies and small fruits at enormous commissions.

Somewhere a prisoner scraped a doleful fiddle. Near by a guard haggled with a convict who worked in the cigar shop and stole cigars for the guard to sell on the outside. The guard, it seemed, had recently raised his commission from fifty to fifty per cent., and the convict complained. But when the guard threatened to report him for his theft, the convict gave in.

At seven o'clock the bugle ceased, and hill permits expired. Then there was another hour of the lights, when some of the convicts read.

Then, at eight, it grew suddenly dark and still. Presently Archie heard the snoring of the tired men. He could not sleep himself; his pallet of straw was alive with vermin; the stillness in the great cell-house was awful and oppressive; once in a while he heard some one somewhere, from a nearby cell, sigh heavily.

Now, he thought, he was doing his bit at last; "buried," the guns called it. Finally, when the hope had all gone from his heart, he fell asleep.

The Summer night fell, and the prison on a gray wall merged itself in the blackness; but it still shut off the great world outside from the little world inside. The guards came out and paced the walls with their rifles, halting now and then with their backs to the black forms of the cell-houses, and looked out over the city, where the electric lights blazed.

TO BE CONTINUED.

SOUND WISDOM ABOUT EGGS

HERE are four bits of advice about eggs for housewives:

1. In choosing eggs always pick out those that have a dull, opaque-looking shell in preference to those that have a shiny one.

2. To boil a cracked egg, wrap it up in paper before putting it in water; none of the contents will then escape.

3. Eggs that have been cooked (boiled) and not eaten can be treated as uncooked ones and boiled over again in the same time as before.

4. To insure an egg not cracking when boiling hold it in a spoon containing hot water for a few seconds before placing it in boiling water.

HELPS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS

In mixing a cake a pinch of soda, when baking powder is used, improves the texture of cake. A pinch of soda added before the cake is put in the oven will keep pies will prevent them from running over.

* * *

If too much salt has been added to a dish, a little sugar and just a suspicion of vinegar will often rectify the mistake.

"FRA DIAVOLO" PLEASES ALL WHO HEAR IT

Opera Company at the Castle Square Begin Week of Good Success.

Combining as it does pathos and humor, now thrilling, now mirth provoking, Auber's comic opera, "Fra Diavolo," as presented by the Castle Square Theatre stock company last night, began a week of what promises good success. With J. K. Murray and Forrest Huff alternately in the title role, and with Miss Clara Lane or Miss Blanche Edwards as Zerlina, the fascinating daughter of the innkeeper, the leading parts are exceptionally well presented. Miss Lane's sweet rendition of her solos last night was the feature of the evening.

The English tourist and bride who fell victims of Diavolo's bandits in the Italian hills while on their honeymoon provided the greater part of the comedy. Jack Hoxie's antics sending the house into roars of laughter. Miss Hattie Belle Ladd, as his adventuring bride, was good. W. H. Pringle and George Shields, as bandits, now raving in high tragedy, now cutting up in low comedy, were well received by the audience.

As a change from the more tragic operas of a Diavolo" is refreshing. The Castle Square company presenting a different piece each week, it was not to be wondered at that there were a few rough places. A little more dramatic freedom throughout the opera would be a decided improvement. Clearer enunciation on the part of the leading men soloists might easily be obtained.

The fact that some rather old kitchen scenery was forced into use to do bedchamber duty in the Italian inn was probably not generally noted—but as that scene is rather tragic as well as comic, the elimination of lines of painted dishes alongside of a canopy top bed might make it more effective.

CHARMION AND HER DOUBLE

Famous French trapezist is impersonated by Simian on Orpheum stage this week.

NEW STAR HERE IS A THRILL IN DRAMA OF DAYS GONE BY

Gertrude Shipman Achieves Success in "Dorothy Vernon" at Globe.

"Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," a romantic drama in four acts, is this week's offering at the Globe Theatre. Miss Gertrude Shipman as Dorothy Vernon made a great hit, as shown by the applause that was bestowed upon her. This piece marks the first appearance of Miss Shipman as a star in Boston. She makes a charming heroine as the erratic but winsome Dorothy, playing the part with ease and naturalness. The play goes back to the time of Queen Elizabeth of England, and the setting is very elaborate, Haddon Hall being one of the best preserved English manors. Lawrence B. Merrill as Sir George Vernon, and George Sylvester as Sir John Manners were unusually capable in support. The role of Sir Malcolm Vernon was distinctly good as played by Charles N. Green. The play is unusually interesting and is presented by a fine company.

"THE LANCERS" MAKING A HIT

Cecilia Loftus and Lawrance D'Orsay both have made prominent hits in "The Lancers," which is in its last week at the Majestic Theatre. The management very aptly describes this attraction as "an elegantertainment." That is precisely what it is. The play is bright, clean and spicy, and is characterized by an atmosphere of peculiar charm and refined comedy. Miss Loftus is delightful as an impetuous, volatile and resentative young Parisian girl. Mr. D'Orsay was never more inimitably droll than as Captain Cecil Fitzherbert.

"MARKED FOR LIFE" IS A THRILLER

That highly entertaining melodrama, "Marked for Life," was well produced by the Bowdoin Square Theatre stock company yesterday in a cast in which Clayton Wright and Flora Bramley appeared in leading roles. In a word the story concerns a scoundrel who tries to win the love of a beautiful girl who has a lover. After many thrilling experiences the villain is brought to justice and the hero claims the heroine in his arms. Miss Bramley and Mr. Wright's performance found much to commend in the most effective display which has become an established feature at this theatre.

VIVIAN PRESCOTT A HIT IN "A CHILD OF THE REGIMENT"

At Grand Opera House.

There is a thrill every minute in "A Child of the Regiment," one of Charles H. Blaney's plays, which opened a week's engagement last night at the Grand Opera House. It is described as a "great western military play." It contains plot and counter plot, and more plot. There is something doing of heart interest all the time. The audience took to it from start to finish, and every time the hero or the heroine survived a crisis—which was pretty much all of the time—there was liberal applause. The company is capable, particularly Miss Vivian Prescott and Walter Wilson in the leading roles. At the matinee on Thursday Miss Prescott will hold a stage reception, and every lady present will be given one of her latest photographs.

MARIE DORO MAKES MANY MORE FRIENDS

Pretty Marie Doro added still more to her circle of friends last evening. The performance at the Park Theatre marked the beginning of the third week of her stay here in "The Morals of Marcus," and the average theatrical engagement in this city is not more than two weeks long it should be noted. The success has been made by this newest of stars. She has splendid chances in the new comedy from London which has been imported for her use.

We Apologize.

Have to do it. You know the line "For Sale Everywhere." It isn't—except on the 20th of the month.

A week later it is like finding "a needle in a hay stack" to locate an EVERYBODY'S MAGAZINE among the high piles. Your newsdealer sells a lot of EVERYBODY'S in a short time at a good profit.

We sold out too soon in September, increased the October edition, sold out too-soon again. Increased again for November, but with Booth Tarkington starting his new story, with O. Henry's "Phoebe"—and you know O. Henry can make you ache as you laugh—and with Wm. Hard's "Making Steel and Killing Men," we are wondering again if there are magazines enough.

Pretty big fifteen cents' worth. Lots of people realize it now. It pays readers and advertisers.

15 cents a copy, or $1.50 a year of the publishers.

James Thornton, with his inimitably droll stories and clever songs, kept the huge audience in roars of laughter, and though some of his jokes were rather hoary with age, the manner in which they were delivered made them sound like new. Joseph Hart's Bathing Beauties, assisted by Gus Williamson, are a clever combination of song and stage effect, while the whistling stunts of Bert Lennox could hardly ever seen on the local vaudeville stage. Mr. and Mrs. Allison, in an amusing sketch, Mason and Shannon, in "Astrology," and Harcia Wallzinger, formerly of the Castle Square Opera Company, round out a bill of unusual excellence.

Columbia Theatre

Pat White and his cohorts of pretty fancy Girls made things hum at the Columbia Theatre last night. It is easily the best show of the season at this popular playhouse. Pat still presides at the soda fountain and has his usual fund of chocolate sodas and other flavors, but the fun he creates is far more entertaining than the finest glass of soda ever drawn. The sixteen troupe of specialties was the sensation of the evening, and did some remarkable work in the dance actually cheer. The Four Terrors, in a dancing specialty, were also prominent, and gave one of the most pleasing specialties ever seen in a burlesque club. Mabel Webb, Nellie Addison Barrett and Josephine Gassman were the best singers of the evening. Overall, the Stranger Lewis, Jr., in the wrestling bout to-night.

Austin & Stone's Museum

Five snarling leopards are the features at Austin & Stone's Fairy Queen, the wonder, does a thrilling act in their cage. Medalia, the one-man band; Les Notre, in magique; John Topp's brass band, Trixie and the big snakes are other curio hall attractions. In the theatre proper Bert Feley and Dale, Rob Roy, Gladys and Marguerite Dalton and the Mozart Burlesque Company; the Dalys, in black-face comedy; Herman Fuller, the dancing Hallidays and Cook, in musical comedy; Florence Emmett and illustrated songs and motion pictures.

Lyceum Theatre

This week's attraction is the favorite queen of burlesque, Rose Sydell, heading her own organization, "The London Belles." The annual visits of this company are always looked forward to with pleasurable anticipation. The comedy is well taken care of by W. S. Campbell, Jimmy Mack, the midget Irishman, and Harry Marks Stewart. Believe characters artist in the specialty line are Great Martyane, Woodford's Educated Animals, one of the most laughable acts on the stage; Campbell and Mack, in "Coontown Circus"; Harry Marks Stewart; living pictures with twenty models; moving pictures introducing Campbell and Mack; the Count Quartet; Kitty Clemens, the original Bowery Girl; and a chorus of twenty-four girls.

Howard Atheneum

Burlesque shows are much the same the world over, but occasionally one comes to town that proves the exception so far as merit is concerned. The Star Show girls at the Old Howard is the exception, for it carries an unusual number of ability soldiers who sing and dance. Marie Crois-ette is a pretty fetching soubrette in her military costume and the military drill in which all the girls participate was a most enjoyable feature. In the Howard's olio part of the evening's performance Ice Hines and Remilton, Kelley and Adams, Longwood Sisters, Lew Hawkins, Dalton, the Notes, Le Dent, little Belle Brandon, the musical Holbrooks and the Howtelescope.

FINE SINGING IS FEATURE AT HUB

Another week has started in with a rush at the Hub Theatre, where Miller Brothers' moving pictures and illustrated songs are the permanent attraction. The latest selections, as an additional feature, furnishes excellent instrumental numbers. A word of praise must be said for Joseph Hark, the Chicago tenor; William H. Gannon, a New York singer, and the Misses Hoy and Rae White.

Tremont Theatre

If Claire Romaine, with her "I Haven't Told My Mother Up to Now," represents "advanced vaudeville," then the Tremont Theatre's policy has made a hit with the theatre-going public, for Claire was the biggest hand of all at yesterday's performance. It is doubtful, however, if her songs would pass a Watch and Ward Society inspection unscathed. Lo Hartson and his Broadway girls appear in a neat sketch from the pen of John J. McNally. Preller's Bijou Circus is the most unique animal act ever seen here. The Ritchie-Hearn aggregation of London acrobats give an amusing burlesque on the working—"alleged" working, to avoid libel—of the London fire department. The London Models, "by popular request" (according to the program), are back again with living pictures and statuary. Hal Merritt has a novel talking, whistling, singing and piano playing act. He is a veritable "Jack of All Arts." Valazzi's juggling and balancing act ranks with the best. Al Shean and company are laughable, but a trifle too burlesquely in "Opie Yadis Up and Settle Down." The Nichols Sisters, in their old singing and laughing act and the French Sisters in new slack wire stunts are well received.

Palace Theatre

Charles Robinson's Night Owls company at the Palace Theatre has two funny burlesques entitled, "Who Stole My Wife" and "Solomon the Soldier," both of which are full of laughing moments and good music. Charles Robinson heads the company and he is assisted by Mildred Flora, May Ward and Emma Peyser. The chorus was also excellent and the burlesques are beautifully staged and costumed. The company's olio includes Mr. Robinson in his monologue, "The Tramp and the Baboon"; Lawrence Edwards and company in a laughable skit, entitled "Casey's Finish"; Mildred Flora, comedienne; Peyser and McDonald, in an eccentric specialty; the International Musical Trio, and Edith Melrose, female baritone. The Palace company presents the Yaldings, equilibrists; Frohingham and Denham, sketch team; John Lavin, singer of illustrated songs; Paterson and Titus, singers and dancers; Dithe and arm, comedy acrobats, and the Paiaresque.

Keith's Theatre

Two or three acts of sensational novelty set in a background of unusual variety, including about all the high-grade vaudeville "turns" makes the bill at Keith's this week one of the most pleasing of the season. Distinctly new is William Barress's clever travesty on the New York Grand Opera war, "The Song Birds," one of the most elaborate offerings now in the varieties. The musical burlesque abounds in tuneful songs by Victor Herbert, and the uproariously funny dialogue is from the pen of George V. Hobart of Boston American "Dinkelspiel" fame. "Oscar Hammerstein" and "Con. the Conreid" each present their stars in song, including Robinson Caruso, Madame Caruso, Madame Edna, Emma Bernaine and others of fame and then comes the war of song in which the artists of each faction backed by a chorus of thirty tuneful singers, are pitted against each other in a contest of song.

Julian Eltinge, formerly of Cadet theatricals fame gave an entirely new line of his inimitable female impersonations, notable among which was his Gibson Girl, Arthur Dunn, the bow-legged little comedian, assisted by Marie Glazier, is bolstered vastly funny in his merry "Messenger Boy."

Amelia Sommerville does clever songs and a sparkling monologue and Peter Donald and Mon Carson have a decided novelty in their cutting act, "Jokes Mixed in Dream." There are a half-dozen other acts and the Kinetograph pictures showing the hair-raising auto race, "The Dieppe Circuit," proved one of the most remarkable films ever shown.

"SKY FARM" FEATURE IS CUTE DONKEY

The Boston Theatre was filled with an audience last evening that showed a keen appreciation of Mr. Kidder's amusing pastoral play, "Sky Farm," now on its second week. The play is admirably presented and the stage settings are most artistic. A feature of unusual interest is contributed by the excellent vocal quartet, and the cute little donkey adds a realistic bit to the production that causes many a laugh.

WITH ANNA HELD ON TRIP TO PARIS

Anna Held took about 2,000 Bostonians to Paris last evening. The trip was very easily arranged, for all that was necessary was to sit in the Colonial Theatre, and in imagination the journey was rapidly taken to the city of the boulevard and the cafe chantant. Miss Held has always been a popular star to visit the local stage, and each of her engagements in the past has been noted for the marked interest aroused, but "The Parisian Model" goes quite ahead of any of her previous offerings. A strong part of the production is the chorus, which is fully on a par with the standard that Miss Held has always maintained.

WHOLE WORLD OF SPORTS COVERED FOR THE BOSTON AMERICAN BY ITS CORPS OF EXPERTS

COACH CRANE WILL MAKE HARVARD FOOTBALL MEN HUSTLE REST OF WEEK

Coach Crane will give his Harvard kickers hard practise the rest of the week, beginning to-day. Although he doesn't expect the Crimson to have any trouble beating the Springfield Training School eleven Saturday, he wants his men to be in fine shape and will likely try out some new plays, as this will be the last minor game of the year.

All the players came through the Annapolis game in good shape. Burr was suffering from a slightly injured leg before the game, but played throughout the better part of it, and is only a little stiff as a result of playing. Lockwood was out on the field in football togs yesterday afternoon, but only did a little running.

The practise was devoted for the most part to eradicating the individual faults which cropped out in the game on Saturday, and to speeding up the players. Cutts had the line men running down the field in pairs under his guns. After they had recaptured them, he made them pass the ball from one to another. The ends were tried out against each other for short sprints, in order to find out their relative speed.

Cutt's New Drill.

Coach Cutts had a new sort of drill for the centres, Grant and Nourse. He chalked out a bull's-eye on the wall of the Stadium, the right height that the ball should be passed for a punt and lined the centres up about ten yards away, having them shoot at the mark as if passing the ball back for a punt. The passing of both men was good and many of the shots hit the bull's-eye square, but in a competition between the two centres Nourse scored the highest and also passed with more speed than did Grant.

Charlie Daly and Rand, Gray and Blumer, the backs worked some double passes, which they got to perfection. The end men were lined up several times and sent away on a fifty-yard sprint down the field. Pooch Donovan took a hand in training them and gave them many valuable points.

Captain Parker spent a long time in kicking goals from placement. He kicked a number from the twenty-five-yard line. Parker has missed but one goal from a touchdown this season so far, and by the way he is practising he does not intend to miss another.

YALE COACHES SEND CALL FOR SILENT HINKEY

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Oct. 22.—Were it not for the fact that the faculty and students of the university are very much opposed to secret practice, the Yale football coaches would undoubtedly have ordered secret practice for the eleven. They learned by West Point's strong defeat that the Yale offensive play is not irresistible, and that the scoring machinery is not running smoothly. But they kept the gates of the field open and say that there will probably be no secret practice for at least another week.

Frank A. Hinkey, Yale's expert coach for end positions, has been telegraphed to, and has answered that he will come East in a few days.

J. O. Rodgers, once a Yale captain and who has developed so many tackles, will also come here speedily. Between them they should speed up the wings of the line. The West Point game was so hard on the team that only four of the eleven were in the line. The ends were Alcott and Piggott. Plins, whom many think superior to "Tad" Jones, gave the signals.

The work was sharp, but brief, less than ten minutes of scrimmaging. Knox and his chief assistants, Flanders and Hall, drove the varsity so fast, however, that two touchdowns were scored, both of them by Burke, and in diverse fashion. Line bucking gave the first one and a quick jump for the ball on a forward pass the second. Benner is back from the West Point Hospital.

PENN'S COACHES USE THIS DEVICE FOR DEVELOPING MEN AT LINE BUCKING

This photograph shows how the Quakers are strengthening their line players for heavy work in the football games. The men shoving the track are given a signal, at which they make a concerted dash against the leather-covered board which represents the opposing line. When three real heavy men plunge at the "bucking dummy," as it is called, the contrivance is often sent rolling yards away. What happens when the machine is replaced by human beings is left to the imagination.

Several heavy players usually stand on the movable platform, as shown in the picture, in order to furnish resistance.

WILL MEET BURNS IN SMALL RING

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—"If Burns will fight me, I'll agree to meet him in a twelve foot ring."

So said Jack Johnson, black heavy-weight champion to-day, who is training to meet Jim Flynn, November 2.

In a recent interview Burns was quoted as saying that if he matched with Johnson he would handicap that ring but a small one that Johnson could not run away from him.

"That makes me laugh," Johnson said in reply. "In none of my fights have I ever backed up from anybody. It is not my style to dance away at any time, and if Burns knew anything about me he would not be so foolish as to make a crack about a small ring.

"Burns and not Johnson is the fellow who danced when he boxed. I have style something similiar to Joe Gans. I stand still and let my opponent come around me. I seldom do any rapid footwork and when I do it is always toward my opponent and not to the side or back."

Never Underrates Opponent.

"Jack never underrates any of his opponents," Manager Jack Fitzpatrick said. "That is why he is a safe bet any time he matches a fight. He trained as carefully for the Sailor Burke fight as if he had a match on with Jim Jeffries.

"That is why he wanted more time to train for Flynn. Personally I do not believe that Flynn will have enough to warrant the belief that he is anywhere near in Johnson's class. I doubt if he lasts ten rounds. The American people have but a slight idea of how really good the big fellow is. I am satisfied he could give Jeffries the hardest bout of his career."

OLYMPIC MARATHON RUN.

The British Olympic Council, which will have charge of the Olympic games to be held in London next year, has decided to add a Marathon race to the programme.

PACKEY WILL TRY TO MAR KID GOODMAN'S RECORD

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Packey McFarland is going to be able to use both sets of knuckles on Kid Goodman of Boston in the fight at Fort Wayne, Ind., to-morrow night.

The "pride of the yards" had another examination of the injured hand which he closed his gymnasium work and his physician found that all of the swelling and much of the soreness were gone. He gave his opinion that if Packey refrains from boxing the thumb will be as good as strong as ever by the middle of the week.

Packey can close his hand hard now, something that he couldn't do in the Gallagan battle, and it does not hurt him at all to punch the bag. This indicates that there is nothing very wrong with the mitt, and Packey Mac, the fighting Scot, is due to tackle McFarland, has the proud distinction of never having been knocked out, and that Packey will try to spoil. Goodman held Packey to a fifteen-round decision not so long ago, putting up an interesting fight. At one time Goodman was regarded as one of the best of the country's feather-weights.

Notes of the Harness Horses

Members of the Dorchester Driving Club are elated over the success of Lou Dillon, the mare whose business has in the past few years kept him in New York. When Lou Dillon was a colt she was the owner of the pacing gelding Checker, a member of Dorchester Driving Club, and it is certainly due to the latter in short ere he secures another mile under the wire in 2.02 or better. Dispatches to the club say:

President J. M. Johnson of the New England Breeders' Association has purchased Lou Dillon (2.12¼), from Kentucky to the Dorchester Driving Club for the price of $10,000 to be paid the stud next Spring. This makes it plain that Checker will not be campaigned to be sent to Kentucky the Fall he was a three-year-old.

Horace Gallup, the man who made East street in Dorchester famous, has been in town recently with lamenting the existance of Job's comforters on his acctount and bewiling with glee over his first born he declares is too smart to ever live. Horace's colt has been christened "Smarty Jones" the best of his hopes is a week-old colt by Bingen, 2.19¾, by Alcyone, 2.27¼, dam Lou Dillon, 2.12¾. He is going to breed the mare to Bingen, 2.07¼, the property of Franklin Fitch of Providence, and reports the result will be boss of the Dorchester Driving Club.

Followers of the Grand Circuit were sailing the Sound on the 2.09 pace, but the 2.20 class was the one who drove him, and there was no way of getting a line on the 2.09 class. Many tried, but the judges sat serene and watched the racer without showing what they could do.

One of the features of the fair held recently at Concord, Me., was the drive of Lady Maud Allerton, despite he is eight-two years old, stepped the mile in 2.29¼, one of the fastest in straight heats, the fastest in 2.24½. He has campaigned horses for more than fifty years.

Notes of the Diamond

The men who make baseball popular and keep it in front were the chief sufferers in the world's series. Accommodations were inadequate whether so poor before and atrocious at Detroit. In Chicago it was a question of getting to the ground fully two hours before the game started to obtain a seat, and the patrons would pack the stand to choice seat and the seats would hand the stand and make the best of opportunities. Harry Pulliam promised the writers in Detroit on Saturday night that he would give his personal supervision for the benefit of the press next year.

Bresnan's great work in the post-season games clinched his hold on the first base job for next season.

A Pittsburg gent called Shed gentleman is said regard to have cleaned up $40,000 on the world's series. He sure has more Boston than any small time swine.

Cub: An animal which hustles around in the Summer and lives off its accumulated fat in the Winter.—From the Nature Fake Dictionary.

Nick Altrock was Cincinnati's post-season hero last year. Now they are giving wintergreen and safe competition to Johnny Kling.

The national commission's ruling against the California "outlaw" league leaves Hal Chase one of his job of playing first base for San Jose.

Each member of the Chicago team cashed in $2,342.10 as his share of the money for the world's season just closed. That is more than the contracts of some of the boys called for.

Matty McIntyre, the Detroit outfielder, always was out of the game with a bad ankle, injury, will take a team of players to Cuba in November for a series of games.

It is expected that in the future the national commission will not have the handling of the world's series. It looks like a graft, and where most of the tickets fell into the hands of ticket speculators, rolls for a dealer change in the methods now in vogue for giving the tickets to the public.

Notes of the Boxers.

The boxing bouts in San Francisco in the future and now that he is in capable hands he is bound will be limited to twenty-round contests by the to make a name for himself. ruling of the Board of Supervisors recently passed.

Bill Squires was badly walloped at Colma by Sergeant Kinney made a surprise some season, but that's no way to go about it.

Bert Keyes, the undefeated lightweight, who is matched to meet Johnny Dundee in Boston the first or last month, left for Southard Hall to-day, where he will condition himself for the bout. Jack Robinson has been engaged to work with Keyes, and his knowledge of the game will be a big help, as he is clever himself and a good tutor.

Manager McCrory of the Pacific Athletic Club of Los Angeles has signed Jim Driscoll, the Welsh boxer, that he will allow him $1,000 for expenses to Detroit, where he will go to meet the winner of the Attell-Wenck fight for the featherweight championship of the world. Driscoll asked McCrory for expenses over and as the $1,000 was sufficient figure, the latter will accept the offer and start for this side within a few weeks.

Mickey McDonough has at last found a full-fledged opponent in Young Oliver has put a stop to Mickey's training faithfully at the Palo Club and he has surprised all Hackensack by the way he has handled Oliver will take him. Well when he knows for indefinite again. Terry has forgotten more than Mickey will ever know, but you show this same Micky anything about the fighting game when he is right.

O'BRIEN MEETS DONOHUE IN CHELSEA RING

The eyes of the local ilette fraternity will be directed toward Chelsea to-night where Young Donohue of Roxbury gives Ronse O'Brien of South Boston an opportunity to show whether or not he is ecutitled to be classed as his equal or superior in the fine art of boxing.

It is surprising to find the number of people who figure that the South Boston boy will have it on Donohue. O'Brien's remarkable performance against Dewhirst recently has led to this conclusion, not dissimilar to the friends of Donohue do not figure it that way. After the exhibitions that Donohue gave at the Elmwood Club the past few days, they cannot see where Donohue is going to get any the worst of affairs with Ronse in Chelsea to-night.

The semi-final will have Young Nadeau of North Cambridge lined up against Frank Mason of Chelsea. Mason was substituted yesterday for Grant of Arlington, who is still too ill to box. Mason made a great showing recently against Willie Schu-macher of New York and the wise ones were picking him to outpoint Nadeau.

The competition will be finished up to-night that the 115-pound boys qualified for two weeks ago.

AMATEUR CUE TOURNEY.

Cutler winning, 50 to 21. Tonight, in the three-cushion game, Stubbs will meet Lawshe, while Horne and Holmes will play in the balk-line match.

MANY LOCAL DEALERS AT NEW YORK AUTO SHOW

By J. C. Kerrison.

The regular habitues of the Bay State Automobile Association were given a rare treat when they assembled for lunch at the noon hour yesterday. The bill of fare was somewhat strengthened by the addition of canvas back duck, the donation of Mr. Angier, who, as a result of his short stay on the Cape, secured and forwarded quite a number of ducks to the headquarters. The ducks came as an offering of friendship to Secretary Fortescue, and the latter generously invited the regulars to partake of the feast. Fortescue and Angier were both voted good fellows and the "regulars" were delighted with the duck and the way it had been cooked by the club chef.

The powers that be in the American Automobile Association has just discovered that a series of speed contests was held on the State highway at Lowell last July 4, and is investigating the same. The speed trials were conducted under legal permission, but without the sanction of the A. A. A., although members of that association acted both as officials and as contestants. Al Morrison can testify to that fact.

The majority of Bostonians who are to be part and parcel of the New York Automobile Show, which opens on Tuesday next, will leave Boston that evening by the new outside steamer line. There is something doing all the time on the boat, and the men will arrive in New York in ample season to engage in the work of the first real day of business at the exhibit.

President S. T. Davis of the Locomobile Company of America spent yesterday in town as the guest of Kenneth M. Blake, the local manager of the company. Mr. Davis expressed the belief that the coming season would be one of the most active in the history of the industry. All signs, said he, point to a most successful business season. Already the company has received a sufficient number of orders to keep the Bridgeport plant working the full season.

Local Manager Y. A. Charles of the Rambler Company announces that because adequate space could not be procured at the Grand Central Palace show to properly display the 1908 Rambler models those will be exhibited during the period of the two New York shows in the spacious salesroom of Homan & Schultz, the metropolitan agents. The salesroom, which is located on Sixty-second street, just west of Broadway, is to be handsomely decorated and the exhibit arranged just as it would be in the Palace. The Rambler line for 1908 will embrace two distinct models of chassis, one with a twenty-two horsepower, two cylinder opposed motor, and the other with a four cylinder vertical motor developing thirty-two horsepower. The smaller model mounts a touring body with detachable tonneau and a runabout body. The larger is placed on the market with a large touring body and a runabout body with rumble seat included.

GUNTHER'S BOUT WAS VERY TAME

WILKESBARRE, Oct. 22.—It was a very tame bout that George Gunther, the Australian, and George Cole put up at the Peerless A. C. There was some clever sparring, but a disinclination upon the part of the latter to get in a knockout. Cole had the best of the mill the first three rounds, but the Australian evened up matters the next three, and the referee decided it a draw.

Let's Look the Situation Over From Both Sides

May Be We Can Discover Why Party Lines Have No Place in Massachusetts This Fall

There has never been a campaign in Massachusetts like the present one. There has never been one involving so much that is vital to the welfare of the State and its citizens.

Any man who votes for Whitney just because he is a Democrat, or for Guild because he has always been a Republican, is not doing his whole political duty.

There occasionally comes a time in the history of a party when it stands neither for the principles which gave it life nor for public good, present or future. Then it is the duty of every party man to rebuke it at the polls until retirement has forced its return to the principles which made it great and strong and to leadership that does not give the lie to them.

No good citizen should say, "My party, right or wrong." He should be for his party when it is right and against it every time it seeks to wrong his city, State or country.

BOTH THE DEMOCRATIC AND REPUBLICAN ORGANIZATIONS ARE WRONG IN MASSACHUSETTS TO-DAY.

The Democratic party stands committed to a railroad trust and to a candidate whose name is synonymous with the worst evils of Legislative lobbying. Honest voters cannot find in Henry M. Whitney, the candidate of Standard Oil and all the corruption that radiates from it, the kind of a man who should ever be elected Governor of Massachusetts. It is an affront to the intelligence and decency of the people that he should be before them as a nominee.

The Democratic machine has seldom nominated men who stood for true Democracy. The Republican organization has been able to keep in power most all the time because of the folly of the Democrats.

The people know that the Republican party, which came into power as a protest against political subserviency to a giant vested interest which dealt in human flesh and blood, has passed from its great moral vantage ground to become itself an agent of capitalists who seek to convert manhood, womanhood and childhood into mill dividends.

The people know that when the party which struck the shackles off the negro slave put Eben S. Draper into gubernatorial succession, then the workingmen could no longer hope that its bosses would give the slightest protection against the manufacturing powers that prey.

The Republican machine may nominate for Governor a somewhat vain and rather weak-kneed gentleman who looks small in the executive chair, although he is bulky enough in body to fill it, but the G. O. P. machine, bold and unscrupulous as it is, has not the effrontery to put forward as a candidate a millionaire tool of Standard Oil, who leaves unanswered the charge that he is personally corrupt and personally responsible for unspeakable bribery at the fountain head of Massachusetts laws.

The people, knowing the bosses of both parties, have long been in a quandary and the Republican machine has stayed in power mostly because the majority of voters could see no relief from evil government by turning one set of rascals out just to put another set of rascals in.

If the voters have no choice except between Whitney, the man accused vehemently and often of being a wholesale briber, and Guild, who wears the monopoly collar, the people might well echo the words of the court crier who shouts, "God save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts!"

But fortunately for the citizens of this State at this crisis in its commercial and political history—when the merger threatens and a great party conducts its convention like a barroom brawl—they have in Thomas L. Hisgen for Governor and E. Gerry Brown for Lieutenant-Governor two candidates for whom every patriotic, thinking citizen can vote without shame and without fear of being betrayed on Beacon Hill.

When Hisgen is compared with Whitney or Guild the thoughtful voter should not have to ponder long before deciding that he is the candidate who, for the good of the State and its people, ought to be inaugurated as the next Governor.

Hisgen is not before the people as a man who could be relied upon to sign the merger, like Whitney or Guild, nor as the chosen leader of the bullying brawn that chokes free speech and fair play in a convention.

He is before the people as a plain, honest, patriotic citizen whose personal character is above reproach and whose ability is proven by his successful business fight against the greatest of all monopolies.

The people of Massachusetts know the candidates and their records. They know the issues—dodged in all but the Independence League platform. It is time for voters to think without party prejudice and vote for the good of Massachusetts and its inhabitants.

If they vote that way they will vote for Hisgen and Brown.

An Open Letter to Joseph A. Dennison

REV. ROLAND D. SAWYER, formerly of Boston, but now a citizen of Haverhill has addressed the following open letter to Joseph A. Dennison, the Fitzgerald candidate for District Attorney. Mr. Sawyer is well-known for his championship of the teamsters in their recent strike and for his eloquent advocacy of the cause of the down-trodden on many occasions:

To Joseph A. Dennison, Esq.:

My Dear Sir—In addressing you let me say I hold no brief for your opponent, Mr. Moran. He has specifically requested that the campaign be left to himself, and I have no doubt he will in due time make sufficient reply to your insinuations as to his conduct of the office of District Attorney. Neither can I address you as one within the limits of your constituency. I do address you, however, as a worker for humanity and having the interest of humanity at heart.

And as such I wish to publicly lament the ideal which you state you will aspire to if elected District Attorney. You state that your first ideal will be "to punish the real criminal." Newspapers friendly to you put into glaring headlines that this is your purpose.

I have read your letter several times, and though in one place you say "for the weak victim of social environment there will be due recommendation of mercy to the court," yet it is plain the ideal you have in mind is a return of the District Attorney's office—to become a prosecuting machine of the poor victims of social causes, which are their misfortune and not their blame.

Do you not know, sir, that the world has come to see that crime is caused by economic conditions, and that until those conditions are removed the poor victim of an outlaw social machinery should be dealt with in pity and mercy?

Can you not understand, without mercy the "real criminal"—that is, those victims of social conditions which the comfortable and well-to-do members of society have so labeled and turned over to the police and the courts to send to our county jails and State prisons.

You know as well as do I that men and women are not sent to our county jails because they commit crimes; that is a mere incident, they are sent there because they are poor and cannot hire a lawyer and furnish means for a legal fight.

And you would, if elected, use your office to aggravate this condition of things rather than to relieve it. And this you say is your "ideal." That it should be your ideal is not so surprising to me, but that you should openly proclaim it, and your friendly sheets should flaunt it, does surprise me.

Are you not aware also that apart from justice, the policy of "having a mercy record" has proved its expediency. Progressive men like Judge Dana, Tom Johnson and Brand Whitlock have clearly established that to be human is the best way to make a better humanity.

If there is anything in Mr. Moran's purpose and policy that should command sting in the voters above all else it is his "mercy record." And when you decorate your ideal so as to return the office of prosecuting attorney to a condition where the well-to-do shall not be molested, but you will get after the "poor devil," you declare to my mind a good and sufficient reason why the voters of your district should vote to keep Mr. Moran in office, and a reason why we as outsiders who are interested in humanity will hope and pray that the voters do see their duty.

Respectfully yours,
Haverhill. ROLAND D. SAWYER.

DRAPER UNFRIENDLY TO LABOR

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I am a non-union man, and shall remain as until organized labor ceases to advocate antagonism of employes toward employers through its recognized leaders. Nevertheless, I shall vote and work against the election of Eben S. Draper as Republican governor of Massachusetts for the very excellent reason that he is unfriendly to labor, whether union or independent.

If anyone with a thimbleful of brains will investigate the Hopedale labor situation and realize the grinding, oppressive, poorly paid conditions, and that Eben S. Draper is mainly responsible for the system of slavery prevailing there, and then cast his vote for Draper, he should seek a refuge in the nearest lunatic asylum without delay.

Draper and men of his ilk are unfriendly to labor, and deserve condemnation at the polls.

NECESSITY, whom long I deemed my foe,
Thou cold, unsmiling, and hard-visaged dame,
Now I no longer see thy face, I know
Thou wert my friend beyond reproach or blame.

MY best achievements and the fairest flights
Of my winged fancy were inspired by thee;
The stern voice stirred me to the mountain heights;
Thy importunings bade me do and be.

BUT for thy breath, the spark of living fire
Within me might have smouldered out at length;
But for thy lash, which would not let me tire,
I never would have measured my own strength.

BUT for thine ofttimes merciless control
Upon my life, that nerved me past despair,
I never should have dug deep in my soul
And found the mine of treasures hidden there.

AND though we walk divided pathways now,
And I no more may see thee, to the end
I weave this little chaplet for thy brow,
That other hearts may know, and hail thee friend.

Why Vote With the Independence League?

By Rev. A. E. George

THE time has come for every voter to show some independence in his voting.

To vote as party directs is often to vote thoughtlessly. You have, for instance, trusted the Republican party bosses and have taken their nominees as you take medicine ordered by the physician.

But there is such a thing as studying the labels and refusing to take your political dose simply because the Republican machine recommends it.

Get out of the rut of voting for a mere party and vote for some well-defined principles which you know to be necessities in the progress of the nation's life.

The Democratic party has lost its standing. The Springfield convention is its death knell. It has become a wreck, not a ship of state.

Its history for the past few years has been one of constant repairs, and it is better to look around and see if there is anything else in the political arena worthy of indorsement.

The Independence League has enough in its short history to ask one to reflect. It has much in its platform which bears directly upon the future requirements of the masses.

It is a party that has made plain that the people have a grand opportunity through the ballot to reclaim their rights, to curtail the tyranny and oppression of monopolies, to promote measures whereby the people may rule the nation by their votes and down the control of bosses.

Doesn't the Independence League make some sort of appeal to you to be independent of mere party and settle down to principles which this nation absolutely needs to make it a reality the home of the free?

Doesn't the Independence League aim to make a change which thousands of voters have been talking about for years past and only lack the courage to follow it?

Be independent in your voting. Vote because you are going to make your ballot make way for reform measures which concern the masses of the people and not a few corporations which fatten on your indifference or fear of changing your politics.

In other words, make your ballot this year consider your own rights, and you will see that by the Independence League has come into prominence.

WANTS TO HEAR HISGEN

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Could you, through your valuable paper, try and induce Mr. Thomas L. Hisgen, the Independence League candidate for Governor, to hold two or three meetings in Boston on nights when we workingmen are through work, as that we could hear him? There are thousands of workingmen like myself here in Boston who are disgusted with Governor Guild, and we won't vote the Democratic ticket. We want to hear Mr. Hisgen. Will you try and help the workingmen of Boston to hear him?

ALFRED JUNIS.
